Our City comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Race Restrictions Should be Placed on Glendale Property.

A COMMUNICATION from a Glendale resident was presented last evening to the city council regarding the menace of the race problem. This problem is acute in some localities. Up to date, Glendale has not had to consider it.

An advertisement for a vacant lot in a good section of Glendale for a colored client inserted by a Los Angeles concern inspired the communication. The writer requested the city council to pass a restrictive ordinance which would prohibit the rental or sale of property within the Glendale city limits to either colored or Oriental people.

* * *

WE believe that inasmuch as Glendale has been fairly free from race trouble that some preventative measure should be passed at this time. It would be easy to control right now. No one would be against a regulation. If we wait until several families of colored and Oriental folks move here we may expect not only trouble but hard feeling.

* * *

THE proposed dog ordinance was taken up again last night at the meeting of the city council. On account of opposition of those present, by motion of Mayor Robinson it was tabled.

* * *

THIS leaves the old ordinance as a law and if it were enforced dog owners would much prefer the one which was tabled last night.

The ordinance that stands prohibits dogs on the streets even if on a leash or in an automobile. They must be in an enclosed yard, even chained outside of an enclosure does not answer. It also calls for the killing of dogs immediately upon being found on the streets.

* * *

IN order to prohibit the running wild of stray dogs we must have some restrictive ordinance, an ordinance which will restrict but not prohibit.

The ordinance last proposed by the city council was essentially fair in its restrictions and if passed could have been enforced without doing anyone an injustice.

* * *

WE think that if more study were given this matter by the objectors they would much prefer the ordinance as proposed than the one now on the books.

* * *

ONE of the old landmarks of Glendale's past was sold a few days ago at a record price. The property in question is located on the corner of Wilson and Glendale avenue and is occupied by a grocery concern. The building on this property was erected in 1888 by Elias Ayers. It was the first two-story building to be erected in Glendale and incidentally it was Glendale's first grocery.

A high valuation for this property in 1888 would not be more than $4000 and now after being used for thirty-five years it sells for $35,000.

BY the largest vote ever cast in Pasadena on any bond issue, the civic center bonds were voted favorably yesterday.

Three and one-half million dollars for the creation of a civic center for Pasadena!

The vote recorded was 8071 for and 2335 against.

This makes three cities within the vicinity of Glendale that have either voted favorably on or are considering the civic center idea. With the disappearing of large vacant tracts available for playgrounds and civic centers, communities are commencing to realize the needs of civic centers.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC TO DECIDE LOCATION OF ITS NEW DEPOT HERE

City Council Puts Matter Up to the Company to Act As It Deems Best for Efficiency of Line and Service to the District

PROPERTY OWNERS' PROTESTS ARE HEARD

City Attorney Is Instructed to Ask for Construction at the Foot of Cerritos Avenue, If Possible, Without Cost to Owners

After a program of good intentions, decisions and reversals, the city council at its meeting Thursday night decided to put the matter of the location of Glendale's new Southern Pacific depot up to the railroad company and to allow that company to put it just where it sees fit.

After two hours of protests, cross-protests, suggestions, accusations and general hard feeling on the part of both factions interested in this matter, these, in short, consisting of the people living on Cerritos and those of Eulalia, City Attorney Morrow was instructed to communicate with the Southern Pacific officials, asking them to locate the station at the foot of Cerritos, if that can be done without cost to the property owners in that section or the city or Glendale at large. If this cannot be done, the communication will suggest that the company place the depot whereever it sees fit.

As it is hardly possible that the railroad company will be willing to go to the expense of buying the two lots necessary for the opening of Cerritos, the chances are that the depot will be located at the place originally designated by the company, at the foot of Eulalia.

All of those who spoke at last night's meeting said that the only thing they wanted was for the depot to be located at the point best suited to the needs of the city of Glendale. It was generally acknowledged that the station would prove a detriment to the property beside which it is located, but, notwithstanding this fact, the speakers, with possibly one or two exceptions, presented arguments why the station should be located in his or her own neighborhood.

The fight for this depot site started several weeks ago, when it was announced that the company intended locating the depot at the foot of Eulalia street. A committee from the chamber of commerce took the matter up for consideration and decided that the foot of Cerritos was the proper place to locate that feature.

This committee went to the Southern Pacific officials and presented their arguments in favor of the Cerritos avenue site. These had their weight with the engineers of the company and the com-

RESULTS OF HIGH STUDENT VOTING ANNOUNCED

West Is Elected President; Gingery Runs Second

Political excitement at Glendale High climaxed in the election held Thursday during roll room periods for officers of the student body for the coming semester, but the results were kept a close secret from even the candidates until the "Explosion" should announce the returns. They ran as follows:

President—West, 579, Gingery, 340; Tousey, 186.

Secretary of Publications—Scoville, 658; Anderson, 446.

Secretary of Assemblies—Roberts, 566; Taylor, 268; Marshall, 265.

Secretary of Debating—Cunningham, 810; McNary, 269.

Secretary Boys' Athletics—Lavelle, 806; Ryan, 263.

Secretary of Finance—Miller, 575; Jewel, 498.

Secretary of State—Fischer, 653; Gillies, 397.

Secretary Girls' Athletics—Phillips, 518; Sample, 491.

As president of the junior class the past year Ronald West has revealed a capacity for leadership which assures the wisdom of his constituents in electing him.

Loren Scoville's big vote shows the confidence his schoolfellows have in his ability to guide the destinies of "The Explosion," of which he will be editor.

Glenn Roberts, the new secretary of assemblies, is regarded as an all-around man who has participated in all the activities of the school and who will easily control the assemblies over which he will be called upon to preside.

Leslie Lavelle, who has continued in the high school the excellent record he made in the grade schools as a leader in athletics, was not to be defeated as secretary of boys' athletics.

Paul Cunningham, who has distinguished himself on the rostrum the past year, was an easy victor for the office of secretary of debating which is by no means an easy one to fill.

The vote polled by Mildred Fisher showed the confidence of the school at large in her ability to worthily fill the office of secretary of state for which she was warmly recommended by J. Rhea Baker, head of the commercial department.

For secretary of finance Grace Miller's vote showed she was an excellent candidate though her competitor also made an excellent showing.

By her interest and intelligent participation in athletic activities Mary Jo Phillips has demonstrated her fitness for the office she is to fill of secretary of girls' athletics.

France Henry led in community singing, introducing several new songs.

A new garbage collection schedule has been inaugurated by the city authorities and cards showing collection time were handed around by J. I. Wernett.

In advance of the chamber of commerce drive for membership the rest of the meeting was turned over to Ed Hewitt, vice-president of the chamber of commerce, who told of the plan of work of the chamber and telling of the needs of a chamber of commerce in a city growing such as Glendale. He introduced a resolution pledging support to the proposed drive and endorsing the plan. After considerable discussion the resolution was passed.

COUNCIL IS URGED TO ESTABLISH RACE LINE

M. M. Young Calls Attention to Advertisement Seeking Property for Colored Client

The following communication from M. M. Young of 412 West Milford street was received by the city council last night and referred to the city attorney for action:

"I wish to respectfully call your attention of an advertisement which appeared in the Glendale Evening News, a Glendale daily paper, under the date of June 4, and again on June 5, under the heading of 'Real Estate Wanted,' to-wit:

"'Wanted to buy for colored client, vacant lot in good section of Glendale. Address reply to Box 210, Glendale News.'

"It is quite obvious that colored folks have decided to make their residence in Glendale, and to be more specific in a god section of Glendale. The writer has no prejudice against colored folks, nor do I believe the council of Glendale will be prejudiced, but I don't want them for neighbors and I do not believe any resident of Glendale would want a colored family in his neighborhood. It is quite unlikely that any property owner would willfully or maliciously sell property to a colored person if they were in possession of all of the facts. Neverthless, some unscrupulous person might possibly do so without due thought to the outcome.

"Therefore, I would suggest that an ordinance be drafted, if such an ordinance would be legal, prohibiting the sale, transfer or rental of real estate within the city limits of Glendale to colored people or Orientals. Many new tracts of land in the city of Los Angeles are sold with restrictions to the effect that colored people and Orientals are prohibited from the district in regard to ownership, rentals and the like.

"If such action be illegal, surely the city council can pass a moral restriction or resolution that will be detrimental to the ambition of any colored folks who desire to settle in our midst, remembering this, that perhaps if colored people do buy property in Glendale it may be next door to any one of you, and if such was the case the value of your property in your neighborhood would decrease in value to the extent of 50 per cent immediately.

"Assuring you that I have deep regard and a great respect for the colored folks in their well defined districts, but not in the city of Glendale, and hoping that some official action in this connection will be taken, I am."

Reneau, who is now in custody, have been recovered by local police and returned to their rightful owner. PUBLIC HEARING ON CITY BUDGETS FOR 1923-24 IS ORDERED

To Be Held in the City Hall, June 20 at 10 a. m., on Estimates of City Manager Reeves for the Next Year's Administration

The public hearing on the proposed public service and general budgets for the city of Glendale for 1923-1924 will be held in the city hall at 10 a. m. on June 20, 1923, according to an announcement made by the Glendale city council last night.

The budget has been under intensive consideration of the council for the past week and it is now in shape for the public hearing. It is understood that a number of prominent merchants and business men of Glendale will be especially invited to the hearing on this matter.

The following resolution bearing on this budget hearing was adopted by the council Thursday night:

"Whereas, the city manager has filed with the council a proposed budget for the public service department and a proposed general budget; now therefore, be it.

"Resolved, that June 20, 1923, at 10 o'clock a. m., is hereby fixed as the time for the holding of a public hearing upon said budgets at the council chamber, Room 200, city hall, of the city of Glendale, 619 East Broadway, Glendale, California, and the city clerk is hereby directed to publish a notice of said hearing once in the Glendale Daily Press, the official newspaper of the city of Glendale, at least ten days before the time of said hearing."

NEIGHBOR ARRAIGNS AIRPORT

W. H. Thompson Tells Council It's Detrimental to His Property

Declares Machines Take Off on His Land Sometimes

A protest in the form of a communication against the manner in which the airport in the northwest section of the city is being conducted was received by the Glendale city council last night from W. H. Thompson of Burbank, who owns property adjoining the land that is now being used for airport purposes.

This communication, which is given here in full, is self-explanatory. It was placed on file by the council:

"I wrote you a letter on March 26, 1923, protesting against the establishing of an airport by the city of Glendale on lots 4, 5 and 6, Rancho Providencia and Scott tract. Since then, as you know, this has been conducted by private parties.

"This port has been conducted in a manner which, if continued, will ruin the value of my property, and it is now a menace to life.

"The planes when rising make so much dust that it would make it impossible for me to raise peaches.

"Also, the field is so small that the planes constantly fly over my property at a height of eight or ten feet from the ground, and have

WATER SUPPLY IS PURCHASED BY THE CITY

Buys Water Bearing Land, Wells and Pump From F. P. Newport

A contract has been entered into between the city of Glendale and F. P. Newport, owner of considerable property in the northeast part of the city, whereby the water bearing land, wells and pumps, necessary for the furnishing of water to the residents living on Alpha road, in Glendale, is being acquired. The necessary papers for the consumating of this deal, on which the city has been working for months, were signed last night and the necessary proceedings were adopted.

This contract calls for the purchase of about 2½ acres of land in Verdugo canyon by the city for $7500. This land is located on Glorietta street, and upon it are several deep wells and pumping plants. This property, according to City Manager Reeves, was appraised by the state railroad commission at $30,000.

The contract calls also for the stream in Verdugo canyon being permitted to run in an open ditch for at least seven years from the time of the signing of the contract.

This property is located sufficiently high for the serving of the Alpha road district, where five or six families are now located and where homes are being constructed at this time.

PUBLIC SCHOOL STUDENTS SURPRISE AUDIENCE WITH PROGRAM OF REAL MUSIC

Combined Glee Clubs and Orchestras of the City Schools Render Series of Numbers in An Exceptional Manner

JUNIOR INSTRUMENTALISTS ARE CLEVER

Children Who Never Played Together Before, Show Poise and Ability in Their Rendition; Tots of Seven and Eight Years Play

By GERTRUDE GIBBS

A big audience, or at least one which filled every seat in the auditorium of the Broadway school, applauded to the echo every number on a wonderful program presented Thursday evening by the glee clubs and orchestras of the city schools, under the direction of Miss Elsa Brenneman, supervisor of music, and her assistant, Mrs. Ettarae Kent.

To say that most of those present were amazed at the music produced by the large groups of children who have been under instruction in the grammar grades is putting it mildly. Members of the Glendale Music club and others interested in the movement to make this city celebrated as a music center if they were not present last night should not fail to attend tonight when the program will be repeated in the same place. It is the best guarantee of Glendale's musical future they could have.

Interest centered in a way on the work of the junior orchestra, composed of groups who have been under instruction in the various city schools, and who had never played together until a short time ago. Their poise, utter absence of self consciousness, and the earnestness with which they performed their parts in a thirty-piece orchestra must have filled the heart of their leader with joy and made the breast of many a parent swell with pride. Of course, the performance lacked finish and perfection, but that little tots of 7 and 8 could handle instruments as they did and keep such good time and tune, when they have been playing but a few months was a revelation of the capacity of early childhood.

Of the thirty odd players, about 20 were violinists, the balance being players of the clarinet, saxophone, cornet, trombone and drum.

After the juniors came the real, satisfying orchestral music of the evening, furnished by the advanced orchestra, composed of players from the two intermediate schools of the city, ranging in age from 12 to 14. Their performance was genuinely artistic and had their leader permitted, many encores would have been demanded. The selections from the "Bohemian Girl" (Balfe) were played with spirit and intelligence, their work climaxing in the ambitious number composed of selections from Rossini's "William Tell," included in the repertoire of the great orchestras of the country. If these young people continue the development they have begun, they may become one of the great orchestras of the Pacific coast.

Of equal interest to the audience was the work of the glee clubs. First upon the program came the girls' glee club of the Wilson Avenue school, who especially pleased with the Roumanian Gypsy Song. The chorus was well balanced and the voices sweet.

The Glendale Avenue boys' chorus next had a place and delighted all listeners, enthusiasm mounting high after each number, particularly the second one, "In Spain" (Chiara).

To see boys of that difficult age singing together without embarrassment and singing so well was worth the price of admission, and then curiosity was aroused as to how the Wilson Avenue boys would comport themselves, but they were just as good, particularly in the Russian boat song which went over big with the audience.

Meanwhile the girls' glee club of the Glendale Avenue school had distinguished themselves in two numbers equally delightful.

An outstanding feature of all the chorus work was the excellent time, the almost perfect enunciation which presented the words of the song as of one voice, the ease of the singers and the fine blending of voices in which none dominated to mar the unity of the whole.

The semi-closing number, "Songs of Spring" (Carl Busch) by the City Teachers' Choral club, was another treat and explained in a measure the cause of the good work in music which the children of Glendale's schools are doing. It was a delightful chorus made up of fresh sweet voices of young women who could sing under Miss Brennaman's able direction without affectation and wit ha real enjoyment in their work which the audience shared.

It was an evening of triumph for all connected with the musical department in our city schools, especially to Miss Brennaman and Mrs. Kent, and an evening which made Superintendent R. D. White very proud of the schools under his supervision.

Miss Brennaman was the recipient of a beautiful bouquet of

SYCAMORE CANYON GRADE ORDINANCE IS ACTED UPON

Other Matters Before the Glendale City Council

An ordinance establishing the grade on Sycamore Canyon road was adopted by the Glendale city council at its meeting Thursday night. The proceedings for the improvement of this road have been under way for several years, and now that, after much delay, they have been started, it is understood they will be rushed through.

No protests were received against the improvement of Garfield and Monterey road and the next steps in these pieces of work were ordered taken.

Petitions for the improvement with water mains of Virginia place, Florence place and Acacia avenue were received and the superintendent of plant and production was instructed to start the necessary proceedings for this work.

Central avenue from Park to Cypress was ordered set aside as a commercial district.

The name of a portion of Holly drive was ordered changed to Hill drive.

Vista Court, which connects with Palmer avenue, was set aside as a business district.

The following resolutions were adopted:

A resolution awarding the contract for the improvement of the first alley east of Louise street to C. L. Hill.

Resolutions ordering improvement work on Granada, Highland, Mariposa and Wing streets.

An ordinance for the opening and widening of Doran street was presented and laid over for one week.

A map of tract No 6326 was approved.

V. A. Parvall, 354 Oak street, was granted permission to set a building closer than 25 feet from front property line at that address.

Petitions for the improvement of Monterey road and Adams street were received and the superintendent of plant and production was instructed to draw up the necessary proceedings.

DOG ORDINANCE IS KILLED IN COUNCIL

Protest Results in Tabling of Proposed Regulation

Once more the question of the passage of a modified dog ordinance was aired and re-aired by and before the Glendale city council last night, and once more the dog owners of the city won out. The result of the little "love feast" was the non-passage of the proposed ordinance, which contained a clause making it optional for the dog owner to have his or her dog vaccinated, and thereby allowed to run at large. The proposed modified ordinance was laid on the table.

For two hours the dog owners bombarded the council. The general desire of the dog owners present was pretty well carried out.

SCHOOL BASEBALL SCHEDULE NEARS ITS END

Central and Broadway to Meet on Next Wednesday

The inter-school contests in baseball for girls as well as boys are drawing to a close and now championships are the goal toward which players are striving. Miss Foulke, assistant supervisor of physical education in the public schools, who directs the activities of the girls, reports that in the northern group of schools, composed of Grand View, Columbus and Central, the championship has been won by Central avenue girls.

In the central division, which includes Doran, Broadway and Colorado schools, Broadway won for both seniors and juniors.

In the southern group, including Acacia, Pacific and Cerritos, the seniors of Cerritos won and the juniors of Pacific.

On Wednesday the champion of the northern group, Central avenue school, and Broadway, champion of the central division, clashed in games for seniors and juniors. Central winning with its senior team and Broadway with its junior team.

Next Wednesday the seniors of Central avenue will play the Cerritos seniors and the Broadway juniors will play the Pacific juniors. Banners will then be given the winning teams, who will be the champions of their class in the city schools.

In the meantime, three teams in each of the intermediate schools have been competing for championships. Thus far the Wilson avenue intermediate team has won, the Glendale avenue juniors have captured the banner, and the only question unsettled is the senior championship, which will be determined in a game on Friday.

HIGH TENNIS GIRLS LOSE TO SOUTH PASADENA

The league tennis game played by the girls' team of Glendale High with South Pasadena Wednesday night was a defeat for the Glendale girls although they made a gallant struggle for the pennant which gives the championship again to South Pasadena.

In the baseball game between senior and junior girls Wednesday night, the juniors won with a score of 5 to 8. This victory gave the championship of interclass games to the juniors who have won three games in succession.

Next week the senior girls play sophomore and freshmen teams to complete the tournament.

Thursday the girls' baseball team of the school played the Venice team.

S. P. TO DECIDE DEPOT LOCATION

mittee was informed that if the city of Glendale would open the foot of Cerritos the company would be glad to locate the station there.

The committee then appeared before the city council and asked that condemnation proceedings be started to secure the two required lots.

At the council's Thursday meeting two weeks ago, S. S. Gilhuly appeared before the board and stated that a big majority of the property owners of South Glendale were in favor of placing the station at the foot of Eulalia street and thereby eliminate the formation of an assessment district, which would be necessary in the event of a condemnation suit.

Last Thursday night a delegation from Cerritos avenue appeared before the board and stated that a majority of the people in the south end of town were not in favor of placing the depot at Eulalia, but that they wanted it placed at the foot of Cerritos.

At last night's meeting both factions were present and arguments pro and con were presented. The concensus of the meeting was that under no means should condemnation proceedings be started and thereby place a heavy burden on the people of the south end.

"Let the company place the station where it sees fit," said one speaker, "for it will probably do so in the end. We are taxed heavy enough down there right now, and we do not approve of additional expense being placed on us when it is not necessary."

Mayor Robinson suggested that the action as finally decided upon be taken. A vote was called for and a big majority voted for the elimination of the condemnation matter and for permitting the company to place the depot where it desires.

VETERANS OF ALL WARS TO ATTEND BIG PICNIC

American Legion members and ex-service men of all wars are arranging to attend the annual Legion pilgrimage to Catalina Island, which this year will be held on Saturday and Sunday, June 16 and 17. All members of families of veterans are included in the invitation.

South Pasadena's mayor, Philip F. Dodson, and A. B. Waddingham, city manager of Avalon, have abandoned all other business and are directing the efforts of an American Legion committee that hopes to land 5,000 ex-service men on the island for this outing. Post commanders in all Southern California cities and communities are arranging for the special transportation offered by Chairman Waddingham's committee. The big steel steamer, "Avalon," will make a special trip at ten o'clock of the morning of Saturday, and again at 3:45 o'clock in the afternoon.

A parade of posts with bands and color standards will take place on the island at 7:30 Saturday evening, led by the Hollywood American Legion band of 125 pieces. A carnival will follow, and at twelve midnight the Forty and Eight, which is the playground organization of the Legion, will begin its entertainment of vaudeville. The following day, among other sports, there will be a baseball struggle between El Segundo Post and Los Angeles Post 8, American Legion, which will probably decide the Legion baseball championship.

All steamer and hotel reservations are being made through local post commanders and Chairman Waddingham's committee, Room 900, Hibernian building, Los Angeles. A half-fare rate is being granted by the Wilmington Transportation company.

DOG ORDINANCE KILLED IN COUNCIL

the audience were many and diversified. Some wanted an ordinance to keep the dogs off the street, others wanted the dogs to be permitted to run loose. A few were willing to accept an ordinance that would make vaccination optional; others said, "Down with the vaccination clause." Some wanted an ordinance that would call for the dog being kept on a leash, others would have nothing to do with the leash idea.

One speaker said:

"I think all the dogs of the city should be permitted to run loose and given their freedom."

"If we permitted that," said the mayor, "Glendale would soon resemble a Mexican cur town."

Mayor Robinson finally came to the rescue by suggesting that the proposed ordinance be tabled.

This, apparently, met with popular approval. But no sooner had the sky cleared than it was again beclouded by an explanatory statement by the mayor.

"I am a lover of dogs," he said, "and it was in an effort to make it easier for them that I was trying to get this ordinance through. We have an ordinance on the books at this time that calls for the killing of dogs immediately upon their being found on the street. It does not permit their being led around on a leash, nor does it allow the owner to keep them in his car. It provides that they shall be kept within an adequate enclosure, and that means a fenced-in yard, or the home of the owner.

"I see that you people do not want the modified ordinance and for that reason we will permit the old ordinance to stand. We are the servants of the people and your desires must rule. Maybe your actions tonight have been wise, maybe not. That is for you to say."

Cries then went up from several sections for the repeal of the present dog ordinance, but these were silenced by the demands for the discussion of the location of the Southern Pacific depot.

An absent-minded man had arranged to take his wife to the theatre.

"I don't like the tie you have on. I wish you would go up and put on another," said his wife.

He obeyed. Minute after minute elapsed, until finally the impatient wife went upstairs to learn the cause of the delay.

In his room she found her husband undressed and getting into bed.

T. D. & L. BREAKS ITS AUDIENCE RECORD

Norma Talmadge Sustains Interest With "Within the Law"

Quite the largest turnout witnessed in Glendale at the T. D. and L. theatre, since the advant of vaudeville, Thursdays, responded to the announcement of the bill for last night prior to the showing of Norma Talmadge in "Within the Law." Before the first show was over, the sidewalk was thronged for almost a block with a double line of those waiting to gain entrance.

The show justified all expectations. It would be difficult to say which number won the most approval—Greenoff and Tino, in their effective costumes presenting dance and song numbers; Berns and Leslie, showing how insurance can be sold with the aid of several features, such as a romantic inclining toward the client; "Black and Tan," in which the colored disabled vet of the world war seeks employment, and finds plenty of it shaking hands with the sympathetic young person at the desk, (parenthetically it might be said that Lester and Vincent could jig the stripes off a corporal's sleeve); Leon Vavara, whose exposition of the "Evolution of a Pianist" rivaled any number on the bill and showed that there is one pianist, at least, who can play classical music, and yet be an adept in the production of jazz; or the Hendricks Belle Isle company portraying the school teacher's day's work, with "Patsy" as the chief "bad actor," in "The School Master." An enthusiastic response was accorded each number. When the lights were switched off, and Norma Talmadge in "Within the Law" flashed on the screen, there were still reminiscent titters as high lights in the vaudeville bill were recalled.

Norma Talmadge is beyond criticism in her role of Mary Turner, in "Within the Law." Her dramatic ability is given full play in the tragedy, pathos, and fire of Mary Turner's makeup—the little shop girl—who is accused falsely, and after serving her three-year sentence in state's prison, comes back and makes her accuser "pay and pay and pay."

Tonight's Show

How does William deMille manage to get such human feeling and such natural motion in his pictures?

After watching Mr. deMille at work on "Only Thirty Eight" at the T. D. & L. tonight, his current production for Paramount featuring Lois Wilson, May McAvoy, Elliott Dexter and George Fawcett, a reply has been prepared by officials of the company. It follows:

William deMille studies every scene of his productions with meticulous thought. His characters are first drilled in the lines of the situation. He makes them put themselves absolutely into the thought and character of their roles. He goes through each person's actions individually.

"LAND OF DOLLS" TUESDAY NIGHT

Everybody in Glendale is invited by Community Service to visit the land of dolls and to share in the joys, sorrows and exciting events which happen to Bessie and Minnie, the two little girls who are transported by the fairy queen to the wonderful land of dolls. The high school auditorium will undoubtedly be filled to overflowing next Tuesday evening when the curtain rises promptly at 8 o'clock. The entertainment, given by some 40 trained children, will be over by 9:30 o'clock, so nobody will be deprived of "beauty sleep." Doll life in doll land will simply enchant the audience. Scenery, costumes, characters, lyrics and dances all form an irresistible combination. The music is written by that delightful musician, Alice L. Wolf, the libretto by Sigmund B. Alexander. There are ten speaking parts, and the whole comedy is certainly clever and humorous. The entire production is under the direction of Mrs. Nanno Woods, who, not only as a teacher of children but also as director of the Glendale Community Players, has established a reputation as producer of sparkling, high-class entertainments.

The Misses Dorothy and Kathleen Woods are in charge of the dancing numbers, while the parents of the children have provided the costumes. There will be no charge for admission, so take a friendly tip and come early Tuesday evening, 8 o'clock, June 12, at the high school auditorium.

MONTROSE FOLKS TO WELCOME NEW BUSINESS MEN

MONTROSE, June 8.—June the 16th will be rather an eventful day for Montrose as it marks the opening of the Montrose Pharmacy and the Blue Bird Cafe, both in the Bellanger building, a strictly modern and up-to-date building, just completed by T. Bellanger, who, with his son will operate the Montrose Pharmacy. Mr. Bellanger and son are both experienced pharmacists. George Charbonneau has leased the west room in the Bellanger building and will operate the Blue Bird Cafe. Mr. Charbonneau's equipment and fixtures are most attractive and his many years' experience in this line of business assures him success. Kelly's Shrine Orchestra of Glendale will be one of the functions offered during the evening.

Three Glendale firms will open up branch establishments in the Dranger building June 11. Lewis C Davis will open a branch in connection with his Glendale store, where he will carry a complete line of rugs, curtains and window shades. Lexie H. Allison of Glendale will open a branch of his interior decorating establishment and the W. T. Gilliam Tent and Awning Store will open a branch shop here on that date.

The Rinhard Grocery Co. will move into their new home Saturday in the C. J. Rinhard building on Honolulu avenue. The Leach Meat Market and a vegetable stand will be operated in connection with the grocery.

Frank S. Anderson of Evanston, Illinois, will arrive soon to be the house guest of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Anderson, for the summer. Mr. Anderson has many friends here who are looking forward to his arrival with much pleasure.

HIGH NIGHT SCHOOL CLOSES WITH FESTIVITIES

Thursday evening, when the last sessions of classes of the night school of Glendale high for the year were held, was marked by farewell festivities. Principal A. L. Ferguson managed to get in on most of them, particularly the refreshment part.

Members of the women's gymnasium class, which has averaged about 30 throughout the year, after the work of the evening was completed, had a party in which their popular instructor, Miss Frances Blanchard, was presented with a handsome vanity case, in appreciation of what she has done for the class.

Millinery classes, which have been meeting three times a week, with an average class attendance of 30, gave their teacher, Mrs. Clara Parker, and her associate, Miss Ward, a surprise party at which refreshments of sandwiches, salad, tea and cake were served.

It is easy to understand now why Principal Ferguson enjoys his job so much and wants to hang onto it.

NORTH ISABEL ST. TO BE LIGHTED ON SATURDAY

The ornamental lighting system on North Isabel street will be used for the first time Saturday night, and the residents along the street are planning a jollification meeting in celebration of the new improvement.

H. J. Eggers, who has built twenty-six houses on this street, is responsible for the new improvement, having secured the property owners' co-operation. The system is about the same as that on Kenwood and adds a great deal to the appearance of the street.

There are forty pyramids and about 30,000 members.

A large delegation of Sciots will be present from Los Angeles pyramid No. 30, accompanied by the Los Angeles Sciots band of fifty pieces. All the visitors, accompanied by the Glendale Sciots and candidates will form a parade and march over the principal business streets.

CAT NURSES FOXES

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 8.—(United Press).—Three tiny silver-black foxes are being raised on a local fox farm, taking nourishment from a mother cat.

At their birth, the full litter of kittens was taken from the cat, and the fox pups substituted. The feline apparently failed to notice the change, and cares for her foster charges with all the devotion she could have bestowed upon her own offspring.

The farm now boasts eleven full grown and thirty baby foxes, with more on the way. Food for the animals, after they pass the infant stage, consists of biscuits, eggs, horsemeat, young gophers and rabbits. Incidentally, Superintendent Woolf has charge of the farm which uses cats to raise foxes.

CRIPPLED LITTLE ONES GET $1000 FROM BENEFIT

Mrs. Brattain Sends Check, Earned by Her Dancing Pupils

Today Mrs. Pearl Keller Brattain will present to the official board of the Orthopadeic hospital for crippled children a check for $1000 with an intimation that a hundred or two more may be forthcoming in the way of more receipts from the Society Vaudeville given by her pupils in the Philharmonic Auditorium of Los Angeles, May 19.

It was a wonderful performance and a big task for the pupils as well as for Mrs. Brattain, but the consciousness that they have been able to earn this large sum to aid in the work of relieving crippled children will be a great compensation.

Other compensations have come to Mrs. Brattain, however, in the letters with which she has been showered by critical artists who viewed the performance and whose enthusiasm was such as to bring them to her studio or cause the inditing of the letters mentioned.

As a result of the work exhibited on the Philharmonic stage, Mrs. Harold Lloyd, wife of the celebrated actor, and herself an artist, has enrolled as pupil of Mrs. Brattain, and little Mary Pickford, ward of the celebrated Mary Pickford, is to be placed under her instruction. Mr. Taylor, formerly a director for Mr. Laskey, was enchanted with the ensemble work and insisted Mrs. Brattain should be directing big spectacles for the screen. It would seem the performance, which will be repeated in a measure in the annual society vaudeville which Mrs. Brattain will give in a short time in Glendale, will not only make a great reputation for the school but for its pupils as well.

WE WOMEN

By BETTY BRAINERD

RUNAWAY HEARTS

Marriage has been defined as a partnership and so far as business is concerned the wife is generally regarded as the silent partner.

In Wall Street the silent partner of a successful firm is considered a powerful force. He pulls the strings unseen, unsung and unheard.

He is very silent.

There is a type of woman who refuses to be her husband's silent partner. She is not content with merely listening to her husband and occasionally expressing an opinion or giving advice. She does more than this. She breaks the silence and threatens to throw the partnership into financial bankruptcy. She cooks up schemes for her husband. She doubts his judgment. She has many ideas and wants her husband to accept all her suggestions. She annoys him and irritates and heckles him. She wants to conduct bot hthe business of the home and the business of the office.

Her heart runs away with her. She has the best of intentions and because her husband knows this and loves her from the intent of her heart he abides with her and suffers her lack of silence with a show of tolerance, understanding and even good nature.

Most women are glad to play the part of the silent partner. Their silence imples faith in their husbands and unquestioning faith is a form of love and happiness. But there is the woman whose heart runs away with her mind and she is skeptic. She doubts her husband. She is a pessimist and unless her husband is an unusual man she will sooner or later bring him close to that line which the old melodrama called the brink of ruin.

I know a lady who is happy to be the silent partner. Her sister is just the opposite. The husband of one is very successful, the other is not.

I asked the wife of the successful husband to tell me why she preferred to remain silent.

"Speech," she said, "is silver. Silence is gold."

Misses Agnes and Elsie Verity of 511 West Broadway, will leave tomorrow morning for a two months' trip in the middle west. They will visit friends in Kansas City, Mo., St. Louis; Battle Creek and Kalamazoo, Mich.

NATIONAL TROOPS FIND ARMS IN IRELAND

[By Associated Press]

DUBLIN, June 8.—Obedience to the cease firing order of Frank Aiken, chief of staff for De Valera, has been general throughout Ireland, and the doubt whether irregular activities could be stopped by anybody has not been justified. There have been a few cases of attempted outrage, but not more numerous than those alleged after the truce with the British in 1921. The most noteworthy was the firing of shots at the suburban home of Martin Fitzgerald, proprietor of the Freeman's Journal, when no damage was done. Many irregulars have dumped their arms and returned quietly to their families, and several dumps have been found by the national troops, whose searches continue to be minute and exhaustive. The expectation is that without any formal peace the whole conflict will wear out entirely within a couple of months.

Some good political judges, old members of the Irish parliamentary party at Westminster, are of the opinion that the government's tacit ignoring of the De Valera proclamation was much of the wisest course, and public opinion is now veering that way. But there are many who think a formal peace would be worth buying, if the price were small enough, and intermediaries are still busy with that object.

Frank Fahy, a republican member of the Dail, has urged "such a slight change in the constitution as would admit all sections to take part in the life of the nation." This means the abrogation of the oath of allegiance to King George, and Republicans believe that England would not now enforce by war that part of the treaty obligation.

An element of danger to the prevailing peace may be found in the continuance of executions. Some more are expected very soon following on trials for attacks on troops. Threatening notices have been received by some Free State officers warning them that executions will be avenged. Such threats will not, of course, affect the decision of the commander-in-chief, and the power to fulfill them has been largely curtailed. But the feeling of bitterness caused by executions is very intense, and seems the most likely cause for a renewal of conflict.

Huge Soup Pots on S S. President Wilson.

San Francisco The provisioning of a large passenger vessel is always a matter of interest, and proves especially so when it becomes necessary, because of the particular trade the liner is engaged in, to carry a wide variety of food. Vessels in the trans-Pacific passenger service, running to the Far East, by virtue of the fact that they carry a large number of Orientals as well as Occidentals stock huge quantities of food stuffs to appeal to everyone on board.

The fast mail and passenger liners of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, plying between this port and China, Japan, the Philippines and Honolulu, are excellent examples in this respect. The quantity of food put on board the President Wilson and similar vessels of the line, and its variety and method of preparation for the table is unusual.

The President Wilson for a round trip to the Orient will carry provisions sufficient to feed every passenger the liner can carry, as well as her crew, for sixty days. For the Occidental passengers, practically all the food is placed aboard at San Francisco and consists of assorted meats, poultry, fresh fish, vegetables, fresh seasonal fruits and dairy products. The fruit supply is replenished at the various ports of call.

A total of 55,000 pounds of meats are carried, of which 30,000 pounds is beef. More than 1,200 dozen of various types of poultry are stocked, including game and barnyard species. Fresh fish, lobsters, shrimps, crabs and oysters to the number of about 14,100 pounds are carried in the huge refrigerators of the President Wilson, assuring the most fastidious of their favorite finny food.

Thirty thousand pounds of potatoes, 12,000 pounds of assorted green and salad vegetables and 1,000 pounds of sweet potatoes are placed in the commodious bins of the culinary department prior to sailing. In addition there are used 3,000 dozen eggs, 2,100 pounds of fancy butter, 200 gallons of cream and 300 gallons of milk. A quarter of a ton of cheese, 5 tons of flour, two of cereals and a half a ton of coffee, tea and cocoa complete the stores for the Occidental menus.

This is far from being the total amount of food stuff taken aboard, however. At Honkong a special list of Oriental foods is delivered aboard ship. These include various items of particular appeal to the Oriental diet, among them being 10,000 salted eggs, nut oil, pickled cabbage, Chinese sweet biscuits, dried Chinese fish, cuttle fish, pickled ginger, pickled and salted lemons, pickled melons, dried mushrooms, Chinese sausage, panoche sugar, soy sauce, dried shrimps, fish in oil and cured red and green beans.

Three kinds of rice are provided—Carolina rice for the Occidental passengers and Japanese and Chinese rice for the passengers of those races.

The chefs on the Pacific-Mail liners are skilled in the preparation of food in every style possible, and in the huge modern galleys perform culinary miracles. Here with the aid of their oil ranges and electric ovens, big stock pots and double boilers, they prepare during one round voyage, thousands of meals.

During the average round trip from San Francisco, to the Orient and back 45,798 first class and 99,800 steerage meals are prepared and served to passengers. In addition there are about 14,200 lunches for the crew off and on watch and 16,000 special lunches, afternoon teas and suppers for passengers which are not counted as regular meals.

In serving the passengers on the President Wilson 8000 pieces of china and crockery are in daily use, as well as 3,000 pieces of glassware and 4,000 pieces of silver-plated service. In the cool, attractive dining salon of the fast liner over five thousand pieces of linen, daily washed in the ship's own laundry, are utilized.

The tourist, ordering from a menu presenting a wide variety of appetizing dishes, little knows how much care has been spent in selecting the material for his meals, how much skill enters into their making and serving.

Early Bible Text Starts Controversy

Dr. E. S. Buchanan

An ancient Spanish manuscript, known as the "Codex Huntingtonianus Palimpsestus" to a few scholars who have seen it in the vaults of the Hispanic Society of America, in New York City, is the subject of a controversy between Biblical scholars, who either affirm or deny the manuscript is the earliest version of the Bible and that it differs radically from the generally accepted versions. The manuscript was brought here in 1907, having been stolen from a monastery in Spain. After poring over it for weeks, Dr. E. S. Buchanan, decipherer of many old manuscripts for the British Museum, now a teacher in Ardsley Towers Prep school, announced that he had discovered the Bible text embedded with a steel pen in the vellum from which the ink had been erased.

Men can't change the weather, but he can do a lot of growling about it.

VAGRANT YELLOW RIVER TO BE PUT BACK IN ITS COURSE

[By Associated Press]

PEKING, June 8.—The Yellow river, China's most treacherous waterway, which caused incalculable damage when it broke its banks two years ago and made a new channel, is to be returned to its original course. Fourteen thousand laborers are engaged in the building of dykes, and it is expected soon to increase the number to 20,000.

W. H. Mallory, executive secretary of the China International Relief commission, estimated the cost of corralling the Yellow river at $1,500,000 Chinese currency, of which sum the finance commission of the Government Relief bureau has provided $360,000.

Hundreds of square miles of territory north of the old river bed in the vicinity of Kung Chia Pa was flooded during the spring of 1921 by the breaking of a dyke and thousands of families were made homeless. Since then the district has been only sparsely repopulated due to fear of a recurrence of the catastrophe.

MODEST POLISH FAMILY INHERITS GREAT WEALTH

[By Associated Press]

WARSAW, June 8.—All the lucky Poles with rich relatives in the United States seem to live in Chenstohova. During recent years several citizens of this town have inherited large sums of money from American Poles, but it appears that the biggest fortune of all has just fallen to the members of a family of the name of Holich, in moderate circumstances, who are reported to have inherited $30,000,000 from Frank Holich of Buffalo, N. Y.

MAKING A DRY CELLAR

Desiring to cement his cellar so that it will be water tight, S. A. Whiting of Libby, Mont., asked Prof. L. J. Smith of the State College of Washington agricultural engineering department for advice. He replied in part, as follows:

"The most satisfactory method of keeping water out of a cellar is by a weeping drain running around the foundation wall outside about 6 inches below the cellar floor level. The drain should be connected to a tile which will run the water out of the ground at a level below that of the basement. Sometimes this requires quite a long run of pipe; sometimes not.

"A 1-2-4 mix is a waterproof mix, but is rather expensive. For a foundation wall you could put in concrete in the proportion of 1 part of cement to 2 1-2 parts of sand and 5 parts of gravel free of sand. This will not be a waterproof job, but will be more economical than a richer mix. To make this wall waterproof you can coat the outside with hot tar or asphaltum.

"When you put in your cement cellar bottom, have it drain from all directions to one point near an outside wall and at a point conveniently below one of the cellar windows. If a small amount of water seeps through the walls, or comes up between the cement floor and the walls, it will accumulate at this lower point and can be easily dipped or pumped out of the basement as it slowly accumulates.

"This is the best method where a weeping drain is not possible. Sometimes it is necessary even with a weeping drain, as the soil may be so heavy that the water does not get down quickly to the drain."

NEW BROADCASTING STATION

OAKLAND, Calif., June 8. (United Press).—Work is being started this month on the greatest radio broadcasting station west of New York, which is to be located here. The General Electric company is building the plant, which will have an ordinary sending radius that will cover the whole North American continent, and in case the government gives its permission, one-third of the way around the earth.

Location at Oakland was felt desirable, as talent from San Francisco, Berkeley and this city is available for programs. Speeches of importance in all cities will be caught in the room where they are delivered and broadcasted from the station here.

RULES FOR I. A. SCORING MAY BE CHANGED

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, June 8.—(United Press).—Since the University of California succeeded in winning its third straight track and field championship, the officials of the intercollegiate association apparently have decided that something should be done about it.

The intercollegiate association, exclusively an eastern-ruled organization, in suggesting some changes in the program and the method of scoring for championship meets in the future, wants it understood that it is not seeking to place obstacles in the way for more California victories.

In considering the motives behind the suggested changes the east is entitled to its own opinion and so is the Pacific Coast.

If the Californians have a poor memory, they may hold the view that the motive is not one of discrimination against them, and if they hold an opinion to the contrary, they no doubt will be good enough sports to keep it to themselves.

Because the California team won the intercollegiate title three times in succession with a team composed almost entirely of field stars, it is not necessary that something should be done about it.

Some baseball teams win games on speed and others on power and it follows that a track team might just as well win with power in the field as with speed on the track.

From a strictly neutral standpoint, however, it is logical that the system of scoring points should be changed to place a higher valuation on first place.

The British system of scoring only one point in each event for the winner works out acceptably in dual meets where one team can beat another five events to four events or the like, but it cannot be applied to meets in which a score or more teams are competing. This system was tried out for fourteen years by the intercollegiate association and it was finally dropped as unsatisfactory.

The present system of scoring gives five points for first place, four for second, three for third, two for fourth and one for fifth.

Realizing that first place ought to be worth winning, it might be better to award seven points for first place, five for second, three for third and so on.

How Kansas Choses Bootleggers

TOPEKA, Kansas, June 8, (United Press).—Kansas, cradle of prohibition, has made an enviable record in ridding the state of Volstead law violators, according to George A. Wark, federal dry agent.

The state which so long ago outlawed the whiskey business while it still flourished in most other states, has met the new emergency created by the national prohibition act with amazing effectiveness, in the opinion of Wark.

In the old days Kansas had to deal with the men who brought the liquor in from other states and retailed it via the "blind pig" route. The Volstead era, Wark pointed out, introduced the bootlegger who makes or imports his product, and peddles it in various ways to his customers.

Under Wark's direction a force of 13 enforcement officers for 18 months has driven the bootlegging forces to cover. Organized bands of rum runners have been broken up, hundreds of stills have been confiscated, and the illegal liquor traffic cut in half, Wark declared.

Within the last three months the federal organization in Kansas has produced the following results. Wark said: captured 87 stills, arrested 258 bootleggers, seized 10 motor cars, captured 1729 gallons of liquor, destroyed 16,371 gallons of mash and reported fines and penalties for collection totaling over $200,000.

According to Wark, public sentiment was aiding in the fight against the outlawed liquor traffic in Kansas.

"If you had not spent your money in cultivating that smoking habit," remarked a facetious friend to Sidney Bieber, a Washington capitalist, who, while puffing on a cigar was gazing at a handsome new building rented by one of the numerous branches of the agricultural department in southwest Washington, "you might have owned that building."

"I do, and the next one, too," was the response.

MOTHERS TRAIL DIRECTORS

LOS ANGELES, June 8. (United Press).—Fathers and mothers who have failed to make a financial success of life are bringing their children to Hollywood for a last whack at Dame Fortune.

"With the success of Jackie Coogan in the picture business, fond parents are looking to their offspring to throw out the lifeline," says one prominent director.

"Ambitious mothers are on the trail of the directors. Naturally believing their children are incomparables, they make good saleswomen. They have all of their 'talking points' ready to shoot at the directors.

"If Daisy can dance a little, she is eligible, according to the parents way of thinking, for stardom in pictures. A very few children thus introduced to the casting director, know what it is all about."

IT MAKES NO DIFFERENCE JIM WHAT OTHER FIRMS DO BUT WE MUST STICK TO THE SPIRIT OF THE LAW IN EVERYTHING AS IT WAS INTENDED

This Silk Suit Settles a Burning Question

The question of the suit is one that will open and close any feminine gathering. It may rage or flicker to an ember, but there is always enough interest in the subject to start the fire at a moment's notice. This year its modifications and its foibles are many. Everything from the plain, pleated crepe gowns worn with the small coat of baragladine in a different color, to the twill suit, with a self-colored silk blouse is good. And if you are a haughty patrician beauty you may still have your strictly 'tailor-made' to be worn with a crisp tucked blouse. These have jackets closely fitting the hips with low waistlines and narrow skirts.

The silk suit is always a delightful compromise. It is not oppressively warm on summer days, yet does away with the desperately exposed feeling that one has if one starts off for the day in an entirely coatless condition.

A soft crepe Faille Moire makes the skirt and the three-quarter, very loose, box coat of the suit in the drawing. Printed crepe de chine attains a position of great prominence in the collar, the lapels, graceful turned back cuffs and the lining of the coat. The same material makes the plain over-blouse. In the particular model seen, the coat and suit were of a warm-toned taupe, the blouse and lining citron. The suit is designed by Henri Creange, the authority on French fashions.

The chapeau should not be ignored. Mushroom taupe felt with a turned up, sharply retreating brim. Yellow rosette streamers that disappear under the crown.

The Once Over

JUBILEE FACTS ABOUT NEW YORK

New York is a body of land entirely surrounded by Tammany politicians, out-of-town buyers, beautiful showgirls, visiting dukes, prohibition enforcement officers, orange drink stands, policemen in Ford roadsters, and wrecking and construction companies.

* * *

It has a population of 6,000,000 persons, all of whom spend a great part of the time picking taxicab fenders out of their arms and legs.

* * *

It covers an area of 316 square miles, some of which are not as square as others. The squareness varies with the administrations.

* * *

It is the only city in the world that has its motto on the traffic signs at every street intersection. The motto is "GO." By special arrangement with the Police Department the National Gunmen's and Bandits' Association has its motto, "Stop," on the other side of the sign.

* * *

New York is composed of five boroughs, including Manhattan and the Bronx, the two largest rivals of the Ku Klux Klan.

* * *

Manhattan is an island. It has always been surrounded by water, but never to the extent it is surrounded by it today.

* * *

It is bounded on the extreme south by the Aquarium, and on the extreme north by the Polo Grounds and the new Yankee Stadium, in all of which you will find the strangest species of fish in the world.

* * *

The principal imports are English authors, spiritualists, wives of ex-prime ministers, hollow canes, Russian players, flasks, Mah Jong, and Parisian art supplements.

* * *

The soil is very fertile, and most any kind of a proposition will flourish in it. Jubilee, convention, and anniversary expositions thrive particularly well.

* * *

The flower and fauna are very distinctive, the hearts of lettuce beds in the Times Square restaurant district being among the most famous in the world. Because of the strict immigration laws, however, not as many faunas are being admitted as in the past.

* * *

There are ten billion dollars' worth of buildings in the city, most of which buildings will be torn down in the next few days and replaced by something bigger and better between Tuesday morning and Thursday afternoon of the following week.

* * *

New York has several thousand miles of subway. People live all their lives in the city and never get a seat in it.

* * *

The subway will carry you anywhere for 5 cents, and no other system in the world will cripple you for less money.

TIPSEY COW IS TIPTER

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—(United Press).—When prohibition officials saw John Agazzi's cow reeling drunkenly around the yard, smelled her breath and watched her shy cowish motion, they looked in the barn. The mash was there. John was fined $50.

DICKY DIPPY'S DIARY —By SINNOTT.

IT WAS RAINING HARD, AND I WAS WALKING WITH SAM BELL UNDER HIS UMBRELLA, WHEN I SAW TOM HAYES ACROSS THE STREET.
"LOOK AT TOM," SAID I. "OUT ON A DAY LIKE THIS WITHOUT AN UMBRELLA. HE LOOKS AS IF HE WAS CRAZY."
"YES, HE DOES," SAID SAM." I'M SURE HE'S CRAZY. COME ON, LET'S TURN BACK. I DON'T WANT TO MEET HIM."
"WHY NOT?"
"I'M AFRAID HE'LL RECOGNIZE THIS UMBRELLA. IT'S HIS."

KEEPING UP WITH THE JONESES —By POP MOMAND.

ADVANCEMENT FOLKS STUDY POSTOFFICE

Would Like It Located Somewhere East of Brand

About 25 were present at the regular meeting of the Glendale Advancement association, held Thursday noon, at which the main subjects of discussion were the proposed larger main Glendale postoffice, location of the S. P. station and the Chamber of Commerce membership drive which the organization was asked to support by the adoption of a resolution proposed by P. J. Hayselden.

The first response under the call for committee reports after the session had been called to order by President Ingledue was made by Dr. Jessie Russell, who moved that the present postoffice committee, composed of Charles Stanley, herself, Mr. Kinch and Dr. Stuart, be discharged and that a new committee of fixe be appointed to work for the location of the proposed larger postoffice at a central point convenient to the east side, preferably on Broadway east of Brand.

P. J. Hayselden seconded the motion, but E. L. Finlay protested and moved to amend by including the present members in the new committee. This amended motion carried and on the nomination of Secretary Herman Nelson, C. W. Ingledue was unanimously elected as the fifth member of the committee, in spite of his earnest protests.

The statement was made that a postoffice conference is to be held in San Francisco in the near future which will be attended by Postmaster Jackson and a delegation of Chamber of Commerce members, and it was urged that the postoffice committee of the Advancement association be represented at that conference. The statement was also made that a movement is on foot to locate the postoffice at Brand and Maple, and another to locate it on Central avenue. Commenting on this, Dr. Stuart said:

"We would be fortunate if we could get this postoffice located as far east as Maryland on Broadway, but if we cannot get this main postoffice located where it will be of some benefit to the east side, it would be better to have our committee instructed to work for a branch postoffice for the east side. Mr. Hatch has stated that he would like to have a branch office located in the Glendale avenue depot of the Glendale-Montrose line when it is extended on Glendale avenue. This city, owing to its formation, is really in need of four small postoffices—one in Casa Verdugo, one in Tropico's district, the present one and one on the east side, and that is what I would be in favor of working for. I do not know whether a big central office would fill the bill or not."

F. W. McIntyre was called upon for a report concerning the probable location of the Southern Pacific depot and said the sentiment seemed to be altogether favorable to placing it at the foot of Cerritos avenue. Mr. Gordon confirmed Mr. McIntyre's statement and reported action taken by the city council Monday night looking to the condemnation of the two lots which will be needed and the formation of an assessment district to pay the cost of the opening of Cerritos. He further stated that the Southern Pacific officials favor the plan, as it will bring the station within 1000 feet of Brand boulevard and they are prepared to build a walk to Brand along their right of way, for the benefit of travelers wishing to take the P. E. at that point.

A motion by Mr. Kinch that the association go on record as favoring the Cerritos avenue site for the S. P. station was adopted unanimously.

P. J. Hayselden described the work he has been doing in association with others on an illustrated booklet which the Chamber of Commerce is getting out, to consist of 20 pages. He also moved the adoption of a resolution which he read, endorsing the membership campaign now being put on by the Chamber of Commerce, naming the prominent men who have been chosen as generals in the campaign. He stated that plans had been made for the reorganization of the chamber along lines similar to those on which the Los Angeles chamebr is conducted.

Dr. Stuart, chairman of the chamber committee on membership, moved an amendment of the resolution by postponing action for one week, and the amendment was seconded by Mr. Chandler. Mr. Hayselden declared action would then be too late. Mr. Chandler withdrew his second and the main motion of endorsement was then put and carried, many of the members not voting. Dr. Russell asked how it happened that a plan for a reorganization of the chamber and for a membership drive had been worked out without consulting the chairman of the membership committee, and Mr. Hayselden said he would endeavor to find out. He stated that the present chamber membership is about 400 and the effort will be to restore it to the 1000 mark, where it once stood.

AMUNDSEN READY FOR HIS POLAR FLIGHT

[By Associated Press]

BERGEN, Norway, June 8.—Ronald Amundsen, the famous Norwegian Artic explorer, will attempt his hazardous air flight from Point Barrow in Alaska to Spitzbergen at the end of June, it is announced here. Between these two points he will traverse what has hitherto been the Arctic's "blind region," a territory of which nothing whatever is known. The greater part of this blind sector lies directly between Point Barrow and the Nortn Pole.

Experts in polar work consider that one of the greatest of the difficulties Amundsen will have to contend with will be that of orientation—the determination of his latitude and longitude while under flight. Assuming that Amundsen starts from Point Barrow under ideal conditions, and in due course finds himself directly over the Pole, he will, according to astronomic theory, have south on all sides of him. It is of vital importance that he start his southward course along the right meridian, for although in which ever direction he flies it will be south, the following of a wrong meridian may lead him along the icy wastes of the Greenland tableland or even across to Siberia.

Another danger, according to polar experts, is that he may find himself over the open sea between Greenland and Spitzbergen, which is some 350 miles at this point, and entirely out of the routes of any vessels employed in Arctic work. Spitzbergen is notorious for the thick fogs which suddenly and completely envelope it in the course of a few moments, and here again lies a danger.

The success or failure of the adventurous flight, polar navigators say, depends upon atmospheric conditions, and on these alone—engine failure, of course, excepted.

JAPAN'S NEED OF MORE LAND MAY CAUSE WAR

[By Associated Press]

LONDON, June 8.—Unless some of the western nations are awakened to their mistaken attitude toward the eastern nations, the struggle between east and west will involve the whole of humanity in the most disastrous war the world has ever seen.

These frank words were spoken by Professor Hishinhima, a Japanese, at a recent dinner in London of the Japanese Society. The limited area of Japan, the professor explained, was a cause of great anxiety to her statesmen. With only 16 per cent of her territory available for agriculture, and a population of 360 to the square mile, Japan looked with longing eyes to North and South America, Canada, Siberia and Australia where there is so much land available for development. She wants to send her surplus population to these empty acres.

COMMUNITY SONG LEADERS PARTY

The Community Service Song Leaders' club had a very enjoyable meeting and social time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Robinson, 720 North Central avenue, last evening.

The evening was given over to actual direction of community singing and each member present took part in conducting one or more songs.

Mr. Robinson, who is tenor soloist at the First M. E. church of Los Angeles, favored his guests with two splendid solos. Following the meeting, dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Robinson.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of L. T. Rowley, 334 West Vine street, on Tuesday evening, June 9. It is expected to continue these meetings throughout the summer, as those present last night were very enthusiastic and desire to keep up their practice.

ASK WIDENING OF NORTH CENTRAL BRIDGE

Parent-Teachers Association Points to Danger

The condition of the bridge over the wash on North Central avenue was brought to the attention of the Glendale city council last night by a communication from the Parent-Teacher association of the Central Avenue school, and the element of danger to school children which have to cross that bridge daily, which will exist until the present structure has been widened or another bridge constructed was pointed out.

P. J. Hayselden, chairman of the highways and bridges committee of the Glendale chamber of commerce, was present and also addressed the council in connection with this bridge. He stated that it is entirely inadequate with the present needs and that there is great danger of the children of that section being struck by automobiles while they are passing to and fro from school.

City Manager Reeves stated that the bridge in question is in the county and that the city can do nothing in connection with it. This assertion was supported by City Engineer Dupuy. It was then decided to have Mr. Reeves write the county supervisors and ask them if they will not give the matter of the repair or replacement of this bridge serious consideration.

Mr. Hayselden stated that he will, as chairman of the proper committee of the chamber of commerce, also send a letter to the supervisors along the same line.

The communication received by the council from the Parent-Teachers' association of the Central avenue school and which was signed by Ada Richards, president, and Annie L. McIntyre, principal of that school, was as follows:

"The Parent-Teachers' association of the Central avenue school of Glendale, wish to call your attention to the condition of the bridge one-half block south of our school on Central avenue, between Gilbert and Arden streets.

"This bridge is used by school children so we ask you to study the conditions and act before an accident occurs. An automobile accident has already occured at this point.

"The traffic increases every day. The Pacific Electric cars should be obliged to slow down and give signal. The bridge should be made the width of the street and straightened. The danger curve should be eliminated. The pedestrians should have a walk on either side of the bridge.

"We have reports of so many 'near accidents' that a real one will occur unless action is taken quickly."

SOLVE QUESTION OF GIFTS FOR JUNE BRIDE

Ed. Radke of Gift Shop Suggests Tokens of Usefulness

The marriage license department at the county court house says that this is the month of June. Without looking at the calendar, it can readily be seen that this is the month of romance orange blossom perfume and weddings, and the names of Glendale youth are generously represented on the record books of the county court house.

This makes it obligatory on the part of those who have friends who have fallen under the magic spell, to turn their thoughts toward the things for the bride. Anticipating this trend of buying, Ed. N. Radke, the jeweler at 109-B South Brand boulevard, announces that every giver will find a selection of lasting gifts, in silverware, jewelry, cutglass and china to fit all tastes and pocketbooks.

Among the most appropriate gifts for the bride, and one which any bride would be proud to possess, is the popular white gold or platinum wrist watch, both durable and ornamental. The diamond, set in platinum or white gold, makes one of the most beautiful gifts and is a most acceptable token.

For the bride's more useful remembrances, Mr. Radke suggests the cutglass wear. Water sets in artistic cut designs, perfect in every line, or the flower baskets in various styles, are to be seen here in dazzling array.

The beauty of the gold china is never appreciated so much as on the wedding day, when in its glory and radiance, enhanced by ribbons and flowers, it is presented. Ever since the first piece of gold china was manufactured, it has carried with it the suggestion of a gift for some happy bride.

Silverware is always appropriate. Mr. Radke announces that a large supply of some of the newest patterns, destined to be popular for many years to come, has arrived and may be seen at the Gift shop. Any bride, when asked as to her most useful gift, and the one most highly appreciated, will invariably point to the silverware.

"SOURDOUGHS" SUPPLY COLOR

[By Associated Press]

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, June 8:—Alaska promises to become a paradise for motion picture producers if the "sourdoughs" contiue to "declare in" on productions. The "sourdoughs" have issued a mandate that every picture filmed in Alaska must be true in every detail of costuming, even though exaggerated in subject matter. They also insist that true types be present in bad men, good men, mediocre men, "onery" dogs, etc. When a producer recently arrived here with a troupe of twenty actors and actresses for the local "magic city," he was waited upon by a committee of grizzled mushers and received a mandate that "it had to be true to form." When the producer started out for Mount McKinley park to film a location, the same sourdoughs came forward with props in the way of costumes which would be worth about $10,000.

"Now for the love of Mike," protested one, "don't send a Dan McGrew out on a well beaten trail to battle a blizzard; don't attire him in high-heeled boots and mail-order house togs; stuff him into this parka, and put these pacs on his feet, throw away that big fur overcoat so he can breathe freely. If you have to put him in snowshoes here's the kind he should have. And listen, here's my string of malamutes that have carried me from Nome to Resurrection bay, and this sleigh is the kind we use on the trail. Since you are making Alaska pictures, make 'em so that some Alaskan outside don't get itchy in the palm and bust a gun at the screen."

In many of the scenes the dress, both for men and women, has been supplied by local residents, including costly furs, ancient style dresses for the actresses and heir-loom props from the drawing room. "Sourdoughs" have taken the male contingent under their wing and put them through paces that no director ever dreamed of. If they survive the drilling there will be enough local color to thrill the most blaze cheechako. The "sourdoughs" demand that the thing must be done right even if they are forced to tie up the actors and freeze a nose in the attempt.

OBSERVATIONS

BY A GLENDALE OLD TIMER

In a book I was reading the other day I came across a reference to elderberry wine. I never tasted any of the wine, but I've eaten elderberry pie and greatly enjoyed it. I expect a good many of you former residents of Illinois, Indiana and neighboring states have done likewise. Elderberries grew in large clusters branching out, handshape, from a common center and were nearly black when ripe. They were borne on mere shrubs, seldom more than six feet tall, growing in clumps. I expect that not only elderberries but wild strawberries, raspberries, blackberries and gooseberries, that formerly were so plentiful in forests, open spaces and on clay hills have almost totally disappeared. The wild fruit was invariably sweeter than the tame varieties. Wild plums were to be found in great abundance, also in those early days. Even California's wealth of flowers to be seen on every hand are not more beautiful than were the virgin forests of the long ago with the flaming sumac, the snow-white elderberry blossoms, the indescribably fragrant plum and crabapple blooms, the red haw, the dogwood and the May apple blossoms. And the greensward along the banks of bubbling brooks, was fairly carpeted with violets, sweet William, spring beauties and bluebells.

Most people think that temperance societies are products of the past 150 years or less. But the Bible tells us of one that existed more than 2500 years ago. Jonadab, the son of Rechab was the founder of this society, the members of which were called Rechabites. They were commanded by Jonadab to drink no wine nor strong drink, to never shave their beards, to always live in tents and to not sow seed nor plant vineyards. And history tells us that all of Jonadab's descendants faithfully kept their vow. In those days men attached more weight to a promise and revered their fathers.

There's a world of wisdom in Jack London's "Valley of the Moon," which is distinctly different from all the other books he wrote. The two leading characters, a prize-fighter and a laundry worker, are descendants of pioneers who "trekked" across the plains in "covered wagons," running the gauntlet of fierce Indian and Mormon attack, as well as storms, floods and desert perils. Both are Anglo-Saxons. After many vicissitudes the young couple leave the city to found a country home in the "valley of the moon." It is the discoveries they make in their tramping tour in search of a location that make the book so interesting. They find that the old Anglo-Saxon stock, after fighting off the Mexicans and Indians and robbing them of their lands are finally driven off these same lands by foreigners who by hard work, intensive cultivation and efficient methods, make the land pay and finally buy it from the impoverished "land-poor" Americans, who in their greed for large holdings neglected to keep the land in condition. At San Leandro the travelers found a Portuguese settlement where the foreigners coming in as day laborers had next leased the lands of their employers and by efficient methods made such large profits that they were soon enabled to buy the lands. In the Pajaro valley there were similar conditions, only there it was Dalmatians who abounded. In other places it was Japs or Chinamen. Finally the travelers turned back to the northward, and now, provided with team and wagon, went as far as Oregon, then doubled back down the coast, finally stopping in Sonoma valley, where they found the land of their hearts' desire and established a home. And their long sought "valley of the moon" turned out to be a reality for that is the meaning of the Spanish word Sonoma. The book is an interesting study in which history and fiction are fascinatingly interwoven.

One of Glendale's best loved ministers, who, when a new church building was under construction, designed and had built into his study a beautiful marriage altar, has some very decided convictions on the subject of wedlock. Whenever he is notified in advance that he is to perform the ceremony, he visits the prospective bride and groom and impresses upon them the solmenity and sacredness of the vows they are about to take and urges them to remember that the promises they made to each other are for life. And he makes the ceremony a very solemn one, stressing the words "as long as you both shall live," assuring them that nought but death should sever the bonds they assume. I believe he is exactly right and that all ministers should frown upon the spirit of levity that pervades so many weddings. And I do not believe that any Christian man or woman should consent to a wedding ceremony that is not performed by a minister. The Catholics are right in making the wedding a church ceremony, that none but a priest can perform. There would be fewer divorces if young people would consider in advance the vows they are to take and resolve that the ceremony must be a religious one.

A poor little girl in some eastern state is reported to have killed herself because her parents forbade her bobbing her hair and dressing herself as a flapper. It is very sad to think of a young life, probably full of promise, going out for such a cause, but it shows how rigidly fashion rules. While I believe that the average American girl, no matter how recklessly she exposes her body in bathing costumes and every day dress, is still modest at heart, I do not think present-day styles are as attractive as those of half a century or more ago. Where can one find a sweeter, fairer picture of modest young womanhood, than is presented by Lois Wilson in "The Covered Wagon," with her dress reaching from ankles to neck and falling in prim folds about her winsome figure? Contrast this with some of the bare-backed, bare-legged specimens in the modern society plays and I think most persons will award the palm to the prairie girl. I am sorry, for the sake of American womanhood, that so many beautiful young girls so shamelessly bare their bodies as a lure to the sensual side of men and boys and firmly believe that they thereby forfeit the respect of even the lewdest-minded spectator. The fact that film plays such as "The Covered Wagon" and many others equally pure in word and costume draw even more largely than the displays of feminine nudity, may yet convince evil-minded producers that there are far more believers in pure, modest womanhood, than the other class.

It is a source of wonder to many people where the thousands of surnames, as we call them, of persons originated. Of course many are from trades, such as Smith, Glover, Farmer, etc., but there are many ridiculous combinations of letters under which persons have to stagger that cannot have been evolved from the occupation of an ancestor. In Sir Walter Scott's charming story, "Fair Maid of Pedth," there is a hint, just at the close, of the origin of a number of English and Scotch family names. The hero of the tale, who finally wins and weds Catherine Glover, the "fair maid," is Henry the Smith, called at times Hal of the Wynd, and again "Gow Chrom" meaning "the bowlegged Smith." From this union spring the families of Smith, Halle, Wynd, Winde, Gow, Chrom, Chrome and other variations, Sir Walter tells us. A prominent feature of the story is the sanguinary combat of the North Inch on a Palm Sunday, when thirty men each from Clan Chattan and Clan Quehle met in battle to decide the question of supremacy. When William McKinley was a candidate for president, in 1900, some paragraphers asserted that he was a descendant, in the 16th generation, of a member of Clan Quehle, and traced the various changes in name that finally merged into McKinley.

A strange tragedy that shocked the entire civilized world was enacted about forty years ago in old Kentucky. Two beautiful blue grass girls, Freda Ward and Alice Mitchell, had grown up in close companionship. They were school chums and were room-mates at college. They neither of them cared for male company, apparently, and they were nearly always together. They were always lover-like to each other. Freda being especially demonstrative of her affection, lavishing kisses and caresses upon her mate. It became a proverb among their schoolmates that "Fred" Ward and Alice Mitchell were sweethearts whom nothing could separate. Judge of the shock, then, when the news was spread abroad that Alice Mitchell had been foully slain by Freda Ward. It came out at the trial that a young man in love with Alice had so aroused Freda's jealousy that she deliberately murdered her "sweetheart" rather than lose her to a male lover.

Dishwashing Helped Her Win Prize for Beautiful Hands, Says High School Girl

Miss Mary Meeker of Brooklyn captured first prize for the most beautiful hands at the National Perfumery, Toilet Articles and Soap Exposition held recently in New York city. She says she gives no more attention to her hands than the ordinary girl, and that she believes helping with the housework at home has kept her hands perfectly proportioned. The above photograph shows Miss Meeker washing dishes after returning from her studies at teachers' training school. The insert is a close-up of her hands.

Useful Hints on the Play

Both at No Trump and a suit bid it is customary to lead the fourth best card of your losing suit. Under such conditions it becomes necessary for your partner to determine how cards in the suit are held. To assist in this deduction the so-called Rule of Eleven was invented. Deduct the number of pips on the card led from eleven and the difference will show how many cards higher than the one led are held outside the leader's hand. For example, if your partner led a seven spot, deduct seven from eleven and the difference, four, determines the number of cards higher than the seven outside the leader's hand. Dummy may have some, the leader's partner may have some, and these facts help the latter to deduce where the cards in the suit led are held. For example, your partner leads a six of Clubs, dummy holds the A, 10, 7, and you hold K, J, 4. Six from eleven leaves five and all five cards are visible. The deduction is that your partner led from a suit of Q, 9, 8, 6, of Clubs. This rule is especially important at No Trump and should be carefully studied until thoroughly understood.

Leading through strength and up to weakness in the dummy is a very useful rule to remember. If dummy is on your left and you have the lead, it is as a rule better to lead through strength. On the other hand, if dummy is on your right and you have the lead, it is better to lead up to a weak suit in dummy.

Forcing or compelling your opponent to trump an established suit will do more than anything else to break up a strong trump hand. Be careful, however, to force the strong trump hand. Your established suit is of no value as long as the declarer has trumps left. Never lead a suit that will allow the weak hand to trump and the other to discard. Such a play is practically always a trick loser. When trumps are out and the declarer has a set-up suit, make your high cards before giving up the lead. If not, you may be everlastingly too late. This is the so-called "Ace time." When the weak hand can trump your good tricks, it is frequently a good plan to lead trumps, but only do so up to dummy. Don't put your partner "under the guns."

If you hold four or more trumps, don't lead a short suit. Your best play is to open your long suit and force the declarer to trump. Such a hand is an attacking hand and should be played to defeat the contract.

The "echo" is one of the most useful of the conventions or rules of play. The echo is a signal used by Auction players to indicate to their partners that they can win the third round of partner's suit, either with a trump or a high card. If your partner leads the King and then the Ace when you hold only two cards of that suit, show you can trump the third round by playing first the higher and then the lower of the two cards. Such reversal is the echo. It also may be used in case you hold three to the Queen. At No Trump, the echo indicates either three to an honor or at least four in number. In either case it means "come on with the suit." As one writer has rather aptly expressed, it sends the following message to partner, "I hear you calling me."

In a No Trump hand, always return your partner's lead unless your own suit will establish in one round and you have a re-entry card. The declarer should hold the commanding card of opponent's suit until latter's partner has played his last card of that suit. This play saves many games when the leader of the suit has no re-entry card.

Don't allow the opponents to make one discard if you can stop it. Use one of your trumps, no matter how painful it may seem to you.

Don't form the habit of playing slowly. Don't expect your partner to play well when you criticize him. A little encouragement will win you rubbers and will add to your popularity.

Don't forget that it requires more skill to play a poor hand than it does to play a good one.

Don't miss an opportunity to win the game or to save it.

Don't hurry when exacting a penalty.

Don't criticize at all; but, if you must, wait until the hand is finished.

Don't take advantage of your partner's breach of etiquette.

Don't think that bad play won't sometimes win tricks.

Don't forget the score for an instant.

Don't ignore the value of small cards.

Don't fail to see your partner's first discard.

Don't be deceived by the dealer's play.

Heloise arrived at last with a scraggy bit of bacon, a very small part of butter, half the top of a stale loaf, and a pot of alleged coffee. She poured out a cupful of this liquid and then, looking out at the leaden sky, began to manufacture a little polite talk.

"Looks like rain, sir," she remarked conversationally.

"Er—yes," he answered gloomily, regarding his cup. "But it has a faint smell of coffee."

CHARLES RICHMAN IS REVELATION AT THE GLENDALE

Those who have seen the big William Fox special production, "My Friend the Devil," at the Glendale theatre witnessed a fine piece of screen acting by Charles Richman, for years a stage favorite, and more recently a big figure in high class screen productions.

One critic who witnessed the showing of "My Friend the Devil" in New York declared:

"To Charles Richman must go the honor of contributing to screen literature one of the finest, most powerful dramatic portrayals in the history of the motion picture industry. As Dr. George Dryden in this very excellent film adaptation of Georges Ohnet's novel, Mr. Richman gives to the silent art a characterization of surpassing excellence.

"It will be a long time before we see another such bit of acting."

Looking back over his stage career, Charles Richman can bring up many fond memories of the applause of theatregoers, not only on Broadway, New York, but on the road. He has starred under the managements of the Shuberts, Belasco and William A. Brady. He was leading man for such favorites as Ada Rehan, not only in America but in London; Blanche Bates, Mary Mannering and others. For years he drew crowds in stock in New York and other cities.

AMERICA'S PART

Just as Secretary Hughes was pleading on behalf of an international court, Sir Gilbert Parker issued a paper begging America to take its part in world affairs.

Secretary Hughes was addressing 2000 hearers at Columbia university. His arguments were lucid, comprehensive, and were received by the audience with apparent approbation. Sir Gilbert will be accused by the professional haters of Great Britain of spreading English propaganda. In a sense this is true, but it is nothing to be cited against him. The benefits he seeks to bring about would be in part for his own country; but they would be for the whole of civilization. Thus there is no justice in using the word "propaganda" in the sinister meaning that often is attached to it. But none worthy of respect or attention could have the hardihood to allege that Hughes also is a propagandist for England.

Secretary Hughes put forth the theory that nations as well as individuals were subject to wrong-doing, and in their misdeeds should be treated as individuals. He held that the tranquility of the world depended upon an international court, just as the tranquility of a nation rested on the proper functioning of its own courts. The proposition appeals as reasonable and conclusive. Such a tribunal, behind it the potency of the nations participating, logically, should be able to accomplish all that it was designed to do. No single nation, dissatisfied with a verdict, would dare to undertake, against the opposition of all the rest to enforce its own will.

In the yearning for peace, the proposal for founding a world court, seems to be the one solution that now holds out promise. Meanwhile, a few Americans desire to hold apart. They make much noise, but mere clamor, incited by selfishiess, is not debate. The United States has a definte part in world affairs, and isolation, remoteness, aloofness, are elements in a foolish dream.

WHERE IS POCAHONTAS?

There is keen interest in the report that the body of Pocahontas has disappeared from the tomb wherein it was supposed to repose with dignity and peace. There is a lingering sentiment attached to her, portrayed as she was as a beauteous Indian maid, saving the life of a Smith. This is due to the fact that if beautiful she probably was the only one of her kind. And then the Smiths have done much toward raising the tide of population.

American families with justifiable pride trace themselves back to one of two sources. If they don't reach the Mayflower, then they accept the alternative of Pocahontas. There could be no estimate of the number of her descendents. An estimate of the number who claim the descent, and have no title to it, would be equally impossible, and in addition, unkind. One easily might be led to conclude that the only Indian blood flowing in the veins of white Americans was that of the lovely Pocahontas. Far from this being the case, there are regions where half-breeds abound.

Probably the report that the body has been stolen will lack confirmation. The theft would have been a mean trick, wholly without profit. The collector collects in order to display his treasures. He would be embarrassed by possession of any prize that he was afraid to show. In this instance he would be charged with grave robbery, which is a low form of crime. He would have waited for thousands of years yet. The time may come when the name of Pocahontas shall evoke no tender regard, but that must be after the lapse of centuries shall have made her as impersonal as Tutankhamen.

NEW BREED OF HUSBAND

Back in New York is being developed a new type of husband. He claims no equality with his wife, but a status possibly a shade superior to that of her lapdog. The wife retains her maiden name. If the pair register at a hotel, hers leads and his comes trailing after. The fad is not new but appears to have received a recent impetus. It seems likely to cause some confusion. When Mary Jones marries William Smith and the twain are blessed with children, the poor little things will always be in doubt as to their own names. Were some of them to be Joneses and the others Smiths, as a compromise, in after years they might be put to great trouble to establish the relationship so as to share the family property. In American society the family is the unit. Clearly enough it is entitled to some distinguishing appellation.

Perhaps if Miss Jones thinks that in dropping her maiden name she would be deferring too much to the tribe of Smith, a plan could be arranged for letting go both names and adopting an alternative, the pair becoming Mr. and Mrs. Brugglesnooper or something like that, and thus giving the laugh to both the Smiths and Joneses.

However, the custom generally prevailing, despite these individual eccentricities, seems to serve the purpose very well. If a woman fears that she will be known to the world as a married person, an excellent method of escape would be for her to remain single. This has been done very satisfactorily in instances.

Fascisti under the direction of Mussolini intend to continue conducting the affairs of Italy. It appears that they would prefer to do this by peaceful methods, but are quite prepared to fight if necessary.

Of course there have been many political fights that were hopeless from the start. The effort of any politician to become President on a wet platform would add one to the list.

News from Spain of the assassination of a cardinal seems unusually startling, and yet there is no mystery about it. As an active figure in politics the prelate was taking the same chances as taken by another. Doubtless the cardinal was slain not as representing the church but as a powerful politician whose influence was feared by the other side.

China seems to be settling the bandit problem temporarily by accepting the outlaws as soldiers. That this will change the conduct of the bandits does not seem likely. Perhaps it is all right in China, but the plan never would work here. On the contrary, in this country, the possession of good morals is required of every man accepted for enlistment.

A receivership has been asked for the ku klux organization centering at Atlanta. The temptation to quote the old saw as to what happens when rogues fall out, is resisted as a matter of courtesy.

According to Prof. Noe, recent discoveries of ancient plant life have set back the date of creation an indefinite number of millions of years. The discoveries are accepted by science, but they still lack the approval of Bryan.

ROMANCE DRIVEL

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Flo Leeds, running true to type, is canonizing herself and glorifying law-breaking in the name of "love."

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

Stillman gave her a diamond and platinum "wedding" ring and after that everything was "sacred" and the legal wife of the banker mattered not at all. Mrs. Leeds it seems had three children by the husband of another woman and she now calls on the world to admire and approve her and Stillman's love.

Sentimental sillies will no doubt begin at once to sing an antiphonal chorus in praise of love, in justification of license in the name of love; and so still further undermine the public sentiment in favor of monogamy.

All of this would be irrelevent if it did not bear so heavily on public welfare, the rights of children and the happiness of wives and the stability of homes.

Sex love is an animal appetite and it becomes sacred only when dedicated to noble ends. A weak yielding to desire, a defiance of laws made for the good of children, a disregard for prior obligations, all in the name of love, these are the things that Mrs. Leeds and her type ask us to justify and admire.

Are we going to comply? If so, where does monogamy get off?

"Day by day in every way" we are glorifying weakness, shirking, deceit, degradation of character, a progressive deterioration of the moral fiber in the name of love. It is one of the most sinister evils of the times.

To be decent, to be honest, to play fair, to shoot square and to transmute love into character, all these are included in noblesse oblige. What part have they in a liason between a married man and his paramour?

Nothing is so easy as to abandon character under the stimulus of passion; nothing takes finer effort and a nobler conception than to love in the wrong place and use that love to ennoble the character of both lovers.

What then should the outside woman who loves a married man say to him?

What is the duty, the plain course of decency, for a man who loves a married woman other than his wife? It is to say this:

"It has been our misfortune to love too late. For loving we are not to blame; that was written. But we are to blame if through our love we destroy our own souls."

If the woman speaks she can then say the only noble thing possible in the circumstances and that is:

"If you wish my love to continue you must show me that you are a man, that means show me that you have the moral stamina to make your marriage a success. Be a better husband, a more devoted father, a worthy citizen staunchly supporting those laws and regulations made for the good of us all. I can love you, but to possess you under the circumstances is weak and mean. We will say good bye and live better all our lives because we have known each other."

If the man speaks he can say the same thing. If neither can so speak, neither can claim for love any nobility, any sacredness, because in a passion to possess they have laid character aside and slid down the moral toboggan to the place where effort in the cause of right is abandoned and cowardice masquerades in the name of love.

I am fully aware that in so speaking my voice is that of one crying in a wilderness of shirking and sentimental slobs; but I believe that I am writing the truth, very solemnly, as I see it, and I believe it is time that somebody should warn society to cease its maudlin glorification of sex desire and the wrongs committed in its name.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

HOW ONE SITS DOWN

(Find the error in this article)

One never sets down. And yet so many people express themselves in this manner.

You set the lamp on the table; but you sit down.

You should say "I have sat down," not, "I have set down."

And if you are speaking of the past you should say "I sat down."

If you say "I set down," another word should be used, such as lamp; as, "I set the lamp on the table."

Say "I would like to sit down," not "set down."

Queries

R. R. Loveland, Ridgewood, N. J.: "Which is correct: We do not like them so well as our own; or, We do not like them as well as our own?"

Answer: "So well as our own" is correct.

John O'Connell, New York: "Is there any excuse for the word proven? Shouldn't the proper form be proved?"

Answer: Never use the word proven. "It has been proved" is correct.

Miss C. E. Peterson, Chicago: "Kindly inform me as to the correct spelling of the following: empasse or impasse."

Answer: The correct spelling is impasse. The word is pronounced an pas' (a as in at; n as in the French bon; a as in art). The word means blind alley; hence, any serious and insurmountable obstacle.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

JAMES W. FOLEY

The neat housekeeper had a closet.

Where she stored things she might need to use.

Things of daily use.

No need to enumerate them.

For you can imagine what they are.

* * *

Nobody realizes how many things are needed in daily life.

Sometime you might make a list of them.

The things you make use of from the time you get up in the morning until you go to bed at night.

* * *

Soap and towels and water and tooth powder and shaving soap, if you are of the rougher sex, and silk and wool and cotton and bacon and eggs and leather and steel and wood and paste and plumbago and a hundred and one other things.

* * *

It is a mighty fine thing to be able to find something just when you want it.

It saves time and patience.

Keeps you in a good humor.

Makes for better work.

More efficiency.

Disposes more quickly of your daily tasks.

* * *

You do not want to go out in the meadow and search for it.

You do not want to hunt through a forest for it.

You want to find it in your upper left hand vest pocket, where you may reach it with a single motion of your arm and hand.

So order is a splendid thing.

And the neat housekeeper with the well-ordered closet was able to find what she wanted when she wanted it.

She did not have to tumble things out and paw them over and hurl them thither and hence and yon.

* * *

And there was a slatternly housekeeper.

Who thrust everything into the closet helter skelter.

And when she opened the closet door everything piled out.

But never the thing she wanted.

And she never could find anything she wanted when she wanted it.

* * *

Which illustrates the difference between a well-ordered mind and a disorderly one.

For the mind holds a lot of things.

Many more than a closet.

Names and dates and rules and memories and theories and places and faces and features and initials and the like.

* * *

And in the work of the day you may need any one of the things stored in your mind.

And it is good to be able to put that thing in use instantly you want it.

Otherwise you lose a lot of time groping about for it.

* * *

So the ordered and trained mind is like the well-ordered closet.

For the mind is your knowledge closet.

Where you store the things you know.

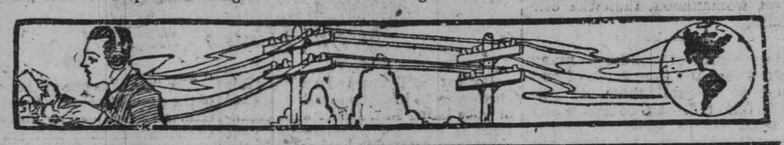
For use when you need them.

* * *

And a well-ordered and well-trained mind is a useful thing.

And a disordered and ill-trained mind is the slatternly housekeeper's closet.

With everything there somewhere but nothing to be found when needed.



Songs of the Poets

Overflow—By John Banister Tabb

Hush!
With sudden gush
As from a fountain, sings in yonder bush
The hermit thrush.

Hark!
Did ever Lark
With swifter scintillations fling the spark
That fires the dark?

Again,
Like April rain
Of mist and sunshine mingled, moves the strain
O'er hill and plain.

Strong
As love, O song,
In flame or torrent sweep through Life along,
O'er grief and wrong.

HOUDINI, A REMARKABLE MAN

By DR. FRANK CRANE

HARRY HOUDINI is one of the most remarkable men of this time.

He is not only a performing trickster and a magician, who makes a business of entertaining the public by puzzling them, but he has a most extraordinary equipment of mind and body.

He was born with inordinate physical strength, which is not at all apparent when one looks at him casually. He has one of the most perfect and efficient bodies in the world.

Added to this, he has a very shrewd and resourceful mind.

"When I was a young man on my first visit to New York," he said the other day, "broke and hungry, I offered to exhibit my tricks and explain them to four of the biggest newspapers in town for the sum of $20. Every one turned me down. Now the secret will go with me to my grave. If it were anything in the nature of a contribution to science, anything that might help humanity, I would assuredly disclose it; but it is not. The secret is peculiar to myself, and it is improbable that there is any other individual so oddly constituted."

Of course, Houdini has made a living out of his peculiar ability, but why shouldn't he? It is quite as proper for him to make money by the use of his peculiar talents as it is for a writer to make money by his power to use language, or a banker to make money because of his excellent financial judgment. Each of us has something that this world wants, and it is perfectly proper that the world pay us for what we have for the reason, if for no other reason, that that is the only way we can find out that the world wants what we have to give it.

Men like Houdini help along a good deal the sanity of the world by showing the public that most of the hocus-pocus put forward by people who claim to be assisted by the spirits or by magic are nothing but clever tricks.

I remember once asking Houdini if he ever attended spiritualistic seances.

"Hundreds of them," he replied. "And I never saw any medium do a trick by the aid of spirits or in any other way that I cannot do. And what I do I know to be a trick, and I never claim that it is anything else."

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

GOOSE AND GOLDEN EGGS

[Buffalo Express]

Of course only a goose would lay golden eggs.

And of course only a goose that would lay golden eggs would lay them under duress.

Yet even a goose that does lay golden eggs knows when it is being choked to death.

That the greatest building boom in the history of the United States has begun to flatten out and is gradually tapering off is indicated by figures made public by S. W. Straus & Co. The figures indicate that the slump in building is not confined to New York city, although the greatest decline for the month of April took place in that city.

"Building operations in many parts of the country are proceeding in unprecedented proportions, although the first break in a long era of record-breaking months is revealed in reports of building permits received for 242 principal cities and towns of the United States by S. W. Straus & Co." the statement continued. Of these cities, 91 revealed losses of $64,000,000 as compared with the preceding month.

The connection between the goose of remarkable productivity and this statement as to building operations should be apparent to the most stupid.

Will those most interested—the producers of building material and the workmen who put buildings together—have the wisdom to see that it might be worth while to coddle the goose rather than to choke it?

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

HENRY JAMES

A Los Angeles vendor of poison whisky seems to have gone a step in advance of fellow traffickers. Like them, he sold a drink that contained a fatal kick, but in the emergency he did not forget what was due a customer. He tore up the floor of his establishment and there laid the victim to rest. The police are now interested in knowing if more than one of the patrons received this final attention. There seems every probability that the thoughtful vender of lethal beverages has incurred the displeasure of the authorities.

There have been many demonstrations that the seller of liquor now is more than a mere violator of the prohibition law. He is a potential assassin in more than one way. He is willing that his wares shall snuff out the life of the buyer, as often it does. He is willing also that the fiery potion shall craze the consumer, putting him in a frame of mind for commission of any crime of violence.

At times it has been awkward for the dealer to have his customers die so rapidly. In the depletion of their ranks he has sustained a distinct loss. The hope of a new crop of drinkers, however, has kept him reasonably cheerful. To have the premises cluttered up with corpses would hurt trade, exciting the suspicion of observers and taking the edge off the appetites of survivors. Doubtless a bartender, with a dead man on the other side of the bar, is in a dilemma, but sympathy is not prompted in his behalf.

The new president of the Oklahoma Agricultural college was escorted to his station by an armed guard. This was only one of many indications that he is a roughneck. There was no occasion for display of force. The educator who had been in charge naturally retired right then, and he was followed by twelve members of the faculty.

Oklahoma boys who desire to learn farming would be wise to grasp the handles of the plow and acquire their knowledge in the field.

That the General Petroleum company expects to expend $2,000,000 in the erection of wharves and storage for 800,000 barrels of fuel oil on Terminal island, is one of the indications of commercial development at the harbor.

No wonder the facilities have a hard time to keep pace with the growth of business.

Winter tourists are going home, but summer tourists are coming. Great trains, cut into sections, run in both directions.

Evidently many people have plenty of money with which to travel, a lot of them desire to see southern California, and a large proportion come to stay.

Revelation of the fact that the late George Gould had two families cannot be said to be very surprising, except for the deftness with which the truth had been hidden from an inquisitive world for a period of years.

Much of the prevalent opinion touching the morals and manners of New York is due to current fiction. The Gould episode tends to prove that the novelists write from knowledge.

* * *

Probably he was left because he was not deemed worth the fare home; because this country already has a supply of criminals, and finally, for the reason that having tried to get mixed in a Honduran revolution, there is a reasonable hope that the natives may shoot him.

* * *

Hardly is it to be doubted that some of the most drastic features of prohibition enforcement are for the purpose of creating friction with other nations. It is hoped thus to bring the amendment into disrepute. Out of a domestic question is being made an embarrassing international issue.

Probably the good sense of congress will come to the rescue. The people of this country have outlawed the liquor traffic so far as they are concerned. It is not their hope to lay down laws for other countries, and they have no desire to meddle. They have a right to keep liquor out, but whether they have a right to say that a vessel belonging to France or Italy shall not dock with wine on board, to be used exclusively on board, is admittedly a question.

The conduct and purpose of American historians in writing textbooks reflecting discredit upon America is being seriously questioned. Perhaps some of the adverse criticism directed at them is overdrawn. Nevertheless citations from their books confirm the theory that they have schemed deliberately to train the student mind on a diet of misinformation.

Despite these historians, Americans still believe Washington to have been a great man, a fine patriot and an ideal warrior. They decline to class Hancock, Patrick Henry and Samuel Adams among disreputables. They do not believe that Jefferson deserved to be hanged nor that the "North saved the union with the assistance of England."

The revolution was an honorable conflict, the colonists in the right. The English were defeated, and being good sports, admit the fact and are not sore about it.

In the histories under consideration many of the important events of revolutionary days, tending to shape the form of government, and to mould the American character, either are not mentioned, or mentioned with insulting and misleading indifference.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Mrs. Lawyer Adams is getting ready to go away for the summer. I'm not criticizing her any. She really is not well and the change of climate is an enforced one. She is not at all like the selfish average of summer-goers among women. You've listened to 'em.

"I really must get away, my dear," they say. "I'm completely exhausted."

Exhausted by what—most of 'em? By having a good time. By teas, dances, chocolates, dinners, bridge. Their husbands are not supposed to be exhausted. All they have done, all winter long, has been to work all day and then act as a combination butler, chauffeur, lady's maid, and escort for their wives. It would be pretty hard on these husbands—the summer-going-away of the wives—if the husbands did not so heartily approve of it. Gad, how they approve of it! If one of these gadding wives were to propose to stay at home her husband would fade like a flower. But, to get back to Mrs. Lawyer Adams.

"Before I go I must get Dad's summer clothes for him."

"And she's right," grins Mr. Lawyer Adams.

For he has the sartorial taste of a cotton mill hand. Give him a chance and he would wear the widest stripes and the loudest checks. He got a chance during that summer when his wife was bedfast in a sanatorium and almost wrecked his business. Conservative men do not select for lawyer a man who wears a blue and white horse blanket for a vest, along with red and purple clocked socks and green and yellow ties. Manufacturers make a certain line of horrible color combinations just to suit men like Lawyer Adams. They are not color-blind, but color-idiotic.

"I not only let my wife pick out my clothes for me," says Adams, "I beg her to. One more summer of my own color combinations would ruin me."

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

As a safeguard against mistakes and in order to make poison detection in the bodies of homicide victims easier, it has been proposed in England to color various poisons with bright dyes.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF BURBANK AND ITS ENVIRONS

DAILY PRESS WILL BE AMONG HISTORICAL RECORDS TO BE PLACED IN CRYPT AT GRAND VIEW

F. S. Webster, City Clerk, Has Received Valuable Material, Which Will Be Sealed for Fifty Years, Sunday Afternoon

City Clerk F. S. Webster has been today preparing the historical records of Burbank to be placed in the crypt at the Grand View Mausoleum at the Sunset services Sunday. The Burbank section of the Glendale Daily Press in which memorable activities of the town have been recorded will be placed in the crypt, which is to be opened in 50 years.

A transcript of the conditions of the town as they are today, such as a statement of the resources, schools, taxes, list of industries, building operations, description of the 15 miles of street improvements now under procedure, with the description of the laying of the six miles of water mains, will be enclosed.

A map of Burbank, pictures of street scenes, the city hall, and the old hotel Santa Rosa, the oldest building in town, will be among the records. A business directory will be included.

It is expected that some of those taking part in the exercises when the historical crypt is dedicated Sunday will also take part in the public ceremonies fifty years hence when the container is unsealed and the records brought to light.

While the present booming development of today forecasts a wonderful progress in the future, no doubt even the most optimistic prophesies will fall short of the actual achievements. The breaking of the ground for the $60,000 mausoleum will be attended by all the 9,000 citizens of Burbank, it is expected.

The services, carefully planned by the Burbank Ministerial association, will be most interesting. Rev. Thomas Stevenson, pastor of the Presbyterian church, is to be master of ceremonies. Rev. E. A. Main, Rev. Allen and Rev. Parker will all turn a spade of the soil.

Mayor J. C. Crawford will present the historical records to be placed in the crypt. Mayor Spencer Robinson of Glendale will sing. Gladys Fischer and Eloise Kirkpatrick will sing a duet. Mrs. Hallie Fillbach will recite a poem. The Usona male quartet, composed of Julius Phillips, Charles Vincent Clay, Charles Munro, Charles Rossell, accompanied by F. S. Moore, will sing.

STABILIZING BUSINESS

BABSON BELIEVES ADVERTISING OF EQUAL IMPORTANCE WITH BANKING

ATLANTIC CITY, June 8.—Roger W. Babson, guest of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World in convention addressed the main body of the meeting on Wednesday and Thursday. Mr. Babson is much interested in the latent power of advertising both in connection with the distribution of goods and as a factor in studying business conditions.

"When the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World was formed, there was a great need for systematic vigilance and guidance," says Mr. Babson. "The condition of the advertising world was far below average business in usefulness and morality. Advertising was largely confined to patent medicine manufacturers, theatrical troops, and bogus stock promoters. Advertising was considered a gambler's game. The old saying, 'everything is fair in war and love' was extended to read 'everything is fair in war, love, and advertising.'

"The first task of the new organization was to form vigilance committees and bring about honest advertising. It deserves the greatest credit for the work it has done and is doing along this line.

"There are, however, other things which are equally important, and perhaps more important when all possibilities are considered. If one looks ahead to the future of advertising he sees three additional fields of development.

"The leading advertisers are each year giving more thought to the question of competitive advertising. By competitive advertising I mean advertising which does not benefit the country as a whole. There is nothing dishonest in both the Standard Oil company and the Texas company erecting large sign boards at the same point on a country road. Moreover, I am not criticising either company for doing this. If one company does it, it is perhaps necessary for the other company to do it. I, however, am sure that these signs do not increase the sale or use of gasoline and in no way benefit the country as a whole.

"The cost of such competitive advertising is ultimately borne by the consumers. From an economic point of view such advertising is a direct loss to the nation as a whole. The people of a country are best off when they get the largest amount of goods for the least amount of labor. Therefore, we all should strive to eliminate, so far as possible, unnecessary labor and to use our labor for the actual production and distribution of goods. Instead of erecting competitive sign boards, carpenters should be building houses for working men; instead of using electric power for competitive advertising, it should be used for productive industrial purposes; instead of wasting newsprint on competitive advertising, the same space should be used for constructive advertising.

"Every sensible man recognizes the value of constructive advertising. Statistics show clearly that most goods can be sold more cheaply and effectively through advertising than in any other form. Advertising, when properly used, is considerably cheaper than selling through salesmen and clerks. Not only is the cost per sale less but, when selling through the newspapers or the mails the maker knows just what he promises. The firm, however, who depends upon a crew of salesmen does not always know what the salesmen promise. There are many other economic advantages gained thru the intelligent use of constructive advertising.

"Finally we shall have what I like to call 'ultimate' advertising. The history of the advertising agent will be similar to the history of the banker. Banking as you know started with the pawn shop. The loaning of money in its early stages was looked upon as a most illegitimate business and carried on under cover by questionable people. Usury was not only banned by the church, but by legislation. It was only comparatively a few years ago, considering history as a whole, when banking was recognized as a legitimate business.

"During the past hundred years banking has gone through various stages. The first campaign was to eliminate dishonest banking; the next step was to eliminate competitive banking; and the present generation has been engaged in constructive banking. The country is now learning, however, that the banker has a great opportunity in steadying business conditions, thereby eliminating reckless booms and preventing needless panics. It has been learned that by increasing the bank rate, during periods of over expansion, a panic can be prevented. Then by lowering the rate during periods of depression, prosperity can be brought back. It has been learned that the bank rate bears the same relation to business that the governor bears to an engine. Hence, the banks have been recently united in the Federal Reserve System which can control the discount rate with the sole object of eliminating reckless booms and preventing needless panics.

"If, however, you will talk with any bank man, thoroughly informed in economics, he will tell you that the goal cannot be reached except with the help of the advertising man of the country and the transportation systems. The three greatest factors effecting business are money rates, advertising rates, and transportation rates. Given control of these three factors one can go a long way in eliminating the hills and valleys of business. The Federal Reserve board is doing as well as it can with only one of these tools, but at present it is like a carpenter with only a hammer, and without a saw or chisel. The Interstate Commerce Commission, which controls the rates of transportation, have the saw; but the advertising men have the chisel. Some day your 'Associated Advertising Clubs of the World' will take up the question of using advertising rates as a tool in connection with the steadying of business conditions.

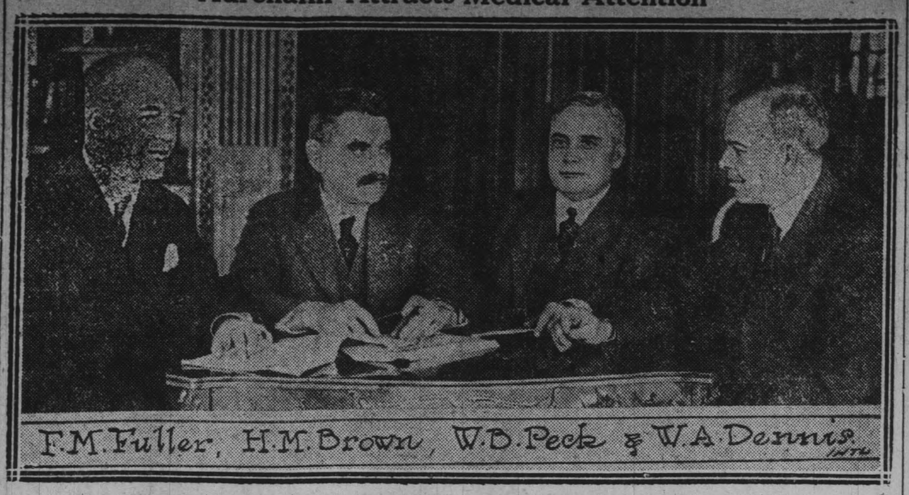
"When business is recklessly expanding, advertising rates should be materially increased; so that when business is depressed advertising rates may be correspondingly reduced. One of the best barometers of business is the size of our daily papers. I do not want to reduce the size of our papers over a period of years. Rather I want to see them continue to increase in size. I, however, do object to a big paper one year and a small paper the next year. Business conditions will become steady and gradually increase only when the amount of advertising becomes steady and gradually increases. Violent fluctuations in advertising are not merely the result of fluctuation in business; but are largely the cause.

"A concern stops advertising because its business has fallen off, but the fact of its stopping advertising makes business still worse than it otherwise would be. To speak statistically, advertising begins to fall off because business begins to decline, but business declines to the depth much worse than it otherwise would because advertising is decreased. The changing of advertising rates and railroad rates in accordance with the Babsonchart would not only greatly benefit business as a whole, but would benefit those who have advertising space to sell and those who have transportation to sell. Business in every way will be helped by what I call this 'ultimate' advertising. May we hasten the day when it will be used."

* * *

General business as reflected in the Babsonchart continues in satisfactory volume, running this week at 2 per cent above normal.

Adrenalin Attracts Medical Attention



The official cases reported recently of the use of adrenalin in restoring heart action to persons supposedly dead has attracted widespread attention from the medical profession. Officials of the Tri-State Medical association, made up of 30,000 physicians in Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota and touring the east, attending clinics in the leading universities, including Yale, Harvard, Cornell and Columbia, paying especial attention to the injection of adrenalin into the muscles of the heart to restore life and to prolong it. The officials are, left to right: Frank M. Fuller, Keokuk, Iowa, vice-president; Horace M. Brown of Milwaukee, president; William B. Peck of Freeport, Ill., managing director, and Warren A. Dennis of St. Paul, second vice-president.

WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT IT?

By E. R. WAITE, Secretary
SHAWNEE OKLAHOMA
BOARD OF COMMERCE

The best way to keep business from going to some other city is for local merchants to keep up-to-date stocks and let the people know about it through the LOCAL NEWSPAPERS!

People know that stores that advertise are interested in low prices and high value. These stores render a real service to the public.

When a business stops advertising it will in time stop doing business.

The stores that will not advertise now, will usually advertise in time—they will advertise a "GOING OUT OF BUSINESS" sale.

Curing your Golf Troubles

By Jim Barnes

Dear Mr. Barnes:

My greatest trouble is slicing, and I would like to know what is the best way to avoid it. My tee shots are especially disastrous. I occasionally get good distance and I am wondering if the trouble is due to lack of hitting through or poor pivoting, or improper balance. I have been told to bring my left hand over to the right more, but I find this very uncomfortable and furthermore, when I do, I often smother the shot. Is it possible that I get my hands ahead of the club? I use a deep straight-face drive and my satnce is slightly open. W. J. B.

There are numerous things, of course, that may cause you to slice and it would be hard for me to try to say where your trouble lies without watching the swing. However, here are a few pointers that you may take note of.

On starting the club back, see that it swings back inside the line of flight, or rather an imaginary line from the hole to the ball and passing through and back of the ball. Also keep your arms in close to the body on the backswing, and try a rather flat swing, where the hands are carried more around and behind the body.

It may be that your wrists are too rigid on the backswing and that the backswing is made largely with the arms without getting enough turn of the body in. Try keeping your arm as straight as possible at the top of the swing, but not stiff at the wrist.

On the downswing you are possibly turning the body too quickly for the hands and arms. The body should follow around with the swing, but must not be allowed to turn ahead of the swing. It is also possible that you are hitting with your wrists too stiff. Keep the wrists fairly flexible and try to throw the clubhead into the ball from the wrists just before it gets down to the ball on the sweep of the arms.

There is no need to grip the left hand any further over to the right, than where the V formed between the thumb and forefinger points to the right shoulder.

Don't take chances—take ICE!

Why do you place food in an open window? To keep it cool, of course. You know that warmth makes food spoil.

But do you also know that the temperature necessary to preserve most foods must be lower than 50 degrees? Do you know that the bacteria and dust laden air, which causes spoilage, has easy access to food kept in the open?

Don't rely upon the open window or the cooler. The only sure way to preserve food is to keep it in a refrigerator—at the proper temperature, free from dust and germs. Use ice every day.

CENTRAL P.-T. A. HAS LIVELY FINALE

Enthusiasm Marks Close of the Present Term

Officers for the coming year were installed at the Central P.-T. A. meeting Wednesday. This meeting closed the present season which has been full of activity and accomplishments for all who have taken active part in the work.

The officers who will guide the destinies of the various projects to be undertaken next season are: Mrs. J. C. Reiter, presdent; Mrs. J. E. Arbogast, first vice-president; Mrs. Anne Harrison, second vice-president; Mrs. A. G. Bailey, third vice-president; Mrs. L. A. Hutchins, secretary; Mrs. W. S. Quarterman, treasurer.

This final meeting was characterized by the same enthusiasm which has carried the Central P.-T. A. through a highly successful year. Plans and discussions of the most vital issues to be taken up next year, and plans for entertainments which will swell the association coffers in the future, were in good order during the meeting, and many interesting and practical suggestions were offered.

Mrs. Anne Harrison, past president and program chairman for next year, announced that the meetings will be opened in October with a real party. It will take place in the afternoon when all mothers can attend, and all the teachers will be present to meet the parents of their charges. There will be music, refreshments and all the other features that make up a regular party, and the afternoon will be spent in a social good time.

Mrs. Reiter, new president, made a short talk, but owing to the change in city government, did not go into detail at this time regarding definite projects, financial and otherwise, which may come up next year.

Dr. H. J. Haisch made the address of the day, giving a detailed and instructive talk on the care of the teeth of children, showing the importance of correct dentistry as well as preventative measures during the early years of life.

Richard Arbogast gave a clever reading and was highly complimented upon his talent by all those present.

OCCIDENTAL GIRL DRIVES CAR INTO TROLLEY POLE

Gladys Crosswell Receives Painful Cuts and Bruises

Miss Gladys Crosswell, student at Occidental college, received minor injuries when she steered the automobile which she was driving into a telephone pole in front of the Eagle Rock Lumber company, at the corner of Central and Park avenues, yesterday.

The car was damaged considerably and Miss Crosswell was cut about the head and bruised slightly. Dr. Phinney was called immediately. The car which Miss Crosswell was driving belonged to Harold Welton, also an Occidental student.

Miss Crosswell was interested elsewhere than in her driving, according to the accident report filed with the authorities. Feeling secure in driving down the broad smooth street, she did not realize the approaching danger when the street narrowed suddenly and the telephone pole loomed up.

ENGLAND HAS CHEAP GAS

[By Associated Press]

LONDON, June 8.—British chemists have evolved a household gas so harmless that would-be suicides can get no more than a headache from it.

The new gas, which is now in use at Newark-on-Trent, can be produced at about a third of the cost of ordinary gas. It contains only 1.4 per cent of carbon monoxide, which is the poisonous element in household gas. American gas contains more than 4 per cent of this ingredient.

The new gas gives off a pungent, penetrating odor of such power that it can be detected immediately. In this lies its protective feature.

HARVEST HOME FESTIVAL TO BE REPEATED

P.-T. A. Members Favor Putting on Big Success of Last Year

Although no definite announcement has been made, there is a decided feeling that the Harvest Home Festival, which drew out the largest crowd ever assembled in Eagle Rock last year, should be repeated this fall. The P.-T. A. members are seriously considering putting on the affair again, with the ful parade, which was the first real parade ever staged in Eagle Rock, and all the side shows, concessions, and entertainments which made the first Harvest Home such a praiseworthy success, both from the standpoint of general amusement and financial returns.

The festival last year took place on the Central school grounds, and besides the regular features of entertainment, an orchestra was engaged and during both days the younger set, and more than a sprinkling of the older ones, too, limbered up on the space used for dancing.

Thousands, rather than hundreds, of people turned out throughout the two-day session to take part in the festivities. The P.-T. A. members who gave their time and energy to putting oyer the affair could not serve all those who clamored about the concessions.

The decision has practically been reached to put on the same stunt this year, but it will take place later in the season because the weather was a little too warm last September when the first festival took place. It will come off during the latter part of October, if plans of the P.-T. A. do not meet with difficulties.

FARM WAGES ADVANCE

SPOKANE, Wash., June 8.—(United Press).—Farm wages this year are nearly 40 per cent higher in Washington than they were in 1922, according to figures published by the state farm bureau.

The average wage of general farm labor is now $1.88 a day, compared with $1.37 a year ago, while the monthly average is $32.57, whereas it was $23.75 last year.

HERE IS HOW STATE BANK MOVES TO BUSINESS CENTER

Temporary Quarters Established in Building of Willey & Haimbaugh

The Eagle Rock State bank, at present located in the east end on Colorado boulevard, will move to temporary quarters in the south part of the building occupied by Willey & Haimbaugh at 131 South Central, in the near future. This move will take place sometime within the next ten days.

The Eagle Rock State bank has made many friends since locating in the east end, and following close upon the heels of annexation, is making a change which will insure a broader capacity for business. Upon locating in the central part of this district, the business of the west end may also be handled, and the bank will then specialize in the handling of escrows. A number of larger services can be rendered the entire community from the vantage point of a central location rather than being limited, more or less, to one small section.

The directors of the bank are: E. J. Whitney, president; G. C. Mattison, vice-president; H. M. Menagh, secretary and cashier; C. E. Harsh, H. H. Maxson and Godfrey Edwards, directors.

A brave man never lifts up a foe for the purpose of knocking him down again.

SPAIN TO HONOR FOUNDER OF ST. AUGUSTINE

[By Associated Press]

NEW YORK, June 8.—Harking back to the days of conquest when proud galleons sailed into the setting sun to explore the riches of the little village of Aviles, Spain, has invited St. Augustine, Fla., to return a social obligation incurred 358 years ago.

Aviles is making ready to move the bones of one of her proudest Castilians and most noted heroes, Adelantado Pedro Menendez de Aviles, to a new and more pretentious sepulcher. And, since de Aviles was the founder of St. Augustine, oldest white habitation on the American continent, that city has been asked to send some of its natives to Spain for the ceremonials.

So confident is Aviles that the invitation will be accepted that one of her sons, Don Angel Cuesta, a millionaire in his own home town and for thirty years a resident of Tampa, Fla., has sailed for Spain to welcome the American delegation when it arrives for the celebration in August. In fact, numerous entertainments and festivities for the St. Augustinians are already being arranged over there, according to cables received by Spanish newspaper correspondents in this city from Don Julian Orbon, director of the ceremonial.

The invitation to St. Augustine is reported already on its way. Another invitation to the United States government, with a request that it dispatch a gunboat overseas for the occasion, is reported to have been tendered through Alexander P. Moore, ambassador at Madrid. A third invitation is said to have been sent to Senator Fletcher of Florida, asking him to have the battleship Florida designated for this mission.

Adelantado Pedro Menendez de Aviles was a haughty adventurer in the reign of King Philip II whose name appears in the almost-forgotten histories of more than one American settlement.

He was born at Aviles, in the province of Asturias, in 1519 and, like many of the aristocratic youths of his day, the castles of his ambitions lay to the westward where Columbus, the Italian to whom Queen Isabella had been godmother, had but recently found fame and fortune. He joined the navy, became a captain-general, served his king in many daring enterprises and in 1560 landed in prison, disgraced.

But Columbus, too, had been disgraced once, so this young Spaniard kept heart. In five years he regained the king's favor and shortly was appointed governor of Cuba and Florida, with orders to colonize the latter country.

With a proud armada of nineteen ships and 1,500 men, de Aviles sailed from Cadiz in 1565. A storm scattered the expedition. Only seven of the ships reached Florida. Ten weeks from the day they embarked, de Avile founded St. Augustine and, after massacring nearly all of a colony of French Protestants that clung precariously to the banks of the St. John's river, Spanish dominion was established over Florida.

On subsequent expeditions Menendez raised the flag of his king over a post on Fort Royal Bay, South Carolina, and founded a mission on Chesapeake Bay. When the Indians annihilated the latter colony in 1572, the founder sailed his ships up the Chesapeake and Potomac and slaughtered hundreds of the red-skinned natives.

His career ended at sea, for he died soon after being placed in command of an armada which was destined to descend upon the Netherlands.

THE TEACHERS

The many things my father told,
Told me as yours did you,
I find as I am growing old
Are true, so very true.
And yet I learned through trial and tears,
Through struggle and through pain—
The things he learned through many years
I had to learn again.

The good advice he gave to me,
The admonitions splendid,
How good they were I've come to see
Now these long years have ended.
So many trials I had been spared,
More trouble than I needed
I've had; but as in life I've fared
I've had to learn as he did.

And now, like him, I'm telling you
The little things he told me,
And when my discourse is quite through,
For preaching you may scold me.
Youth oft objects to preachments old,
And to be told or chided,
So much of truth that is as gold
You'll have to learn, as I did.

And when you've reached the mellow years,
And as you've been and wandered,
And as you've learned through trials and tears,
And as you've toiled and pondered,
You'll tell the youngsters once again
As our Dads good and true did,
But hurt will come and grief and pain—
They'll have to learn as you did.

QUEEN'S WILL STANDS AFTER FOUR SUITS

[By Associated Press]

HONOLULU, June 8.—Litigation over the will of the late Queen Liliuokalani, last reigning monarch in Hawaii, which has occupied the courts here since her death in 1917, has been terminated with the withdrawing of the suit filed by Mrs. Kahakauilakeliimoewaiowaiaulia Keawe Nawihie to break the testament. The 30-letter name means "Thundering Chieftess of the Sleeping Waters."

Mrs. Nawahie's action was the fourth that had been brought in an effort to overturn the will. She contended that she was the next of kin to the former queen.

The first suit was filed by the late Prince Jonah Kuhio Kalanianaole, former delegate to congress, and was settled by compromise.

The second suit, filed by Mrs. Emma K. DeFries, was dismissed.

The third action, based on a will which named the "Princess" Theresa Owana Wilcox Belliveau Kelley and two other persons as beneficiaries, also was dismissed by the territorial supreme court.

This suit had a sensational aftermath. A Hawaiian minister, who testified that he witnessed the signature of the late queen to the document, told his attorney later that he had a vision or a dream, and confessed that the will was a fraud on the part of "Princess Theresa." As the result she was convicted of forgery and was sentenced to three years imprisonment. She was released recently at the conclusion of her term.

Mrs. Nawahie's contest was dismissed some time ago on the ground that she had failed to prove her contention that she was related to the queen. She appealed to a jury but after long court delays withdrew her suit, she told the court, because all of the attorneys she consulted told her that her case was without merit.

Sometimes a man fails to accomplish anything worth while because he is too busy criticizing some other fellow.
